FOR NATIONAL SECURITY—

Lackland Air Force Base BY BRIG. GEN. WYCLIFFE E. STEELE, USAF Commanding General

(Nov. 12 marked the tenth anniversary of Lackland AFB).

LACKLAND Air Force base, near San Antonio, Tex., has been assigned the role of the central indoctrination center of the Air Force in the present service-wide expansion. This represents a change from the base's post World War II designation as the only "Gateway to the Air Force" for both enlisted and officer candidate personnel volunteering for the nation's air arm. During the past year two new Air Force basic training bases have been established in the east and west sections of the country.

Brig. Gen. Steele

In the east Sampson Air Force base, Geneva, N. Y., has assumed a major share of the indoctrination of male enlistees. In the west Parks Air Force base, Pleasanton, Calif., is building up to fulfill its intended mission as a basic training center for the area it represents. Under this regional plan aimed at significantly reducing transportation and mileage costs, Lackland will continue to receive recruits from the great midwest area and most of the south. Lackland also remains as the Air Force's only Women in the Air Force and officer reception and indoctrination training base.

As conceived and executed, the indoctrination mission means more than a routine initiation and briefing of Air Force entrants. Running through all Lackland training as a central theme is the purpose of instilling in each new-comer individual a sense of high moral values and a genuine love of God and country. It is held axiomatic that "Better citizens make better airmen" and both citizenship and character guidance training have taken front seats in Lackland's present overall indoctrination program.

Respecting citizenship, the Lackland staff has endeavored to motivate fully the new "Freedom Hour" courses being instituted on an experimental basis in the several branches of the Armed Forces. Already these courses have been integrated in the standard eight week curriculum of one Lackland basic training group. Respecting character guidance, the educational process has been handed over to the base's entire perma-

AF Promotions Readied

Air Force officials said late this week that the names of officers selected for permanent promotion from captain to major may be made public next week.

The zone of consideration is as follows:

USAF—Through Watkins, Thomas G., Jr., 10500A.

Medical — Through Peat, Alexander C., 19324A.

Dental — Through Fricke, Vernon S., 18951A.

Veterinary—Through Beckcom, Edwin A., Jr., 19005A.

Medical Service—Through Wehrman, Edwin M., 19631A.

Chaplains — All permanent captains who complete 14 years' promotion list service prior to 1 Jan. 1953—through Kessler, John N., 18789A.

Army Releases First of Many W.O. Promotions

The Army this week released the first of hundreds of warrant officer promotions to be announced in the next six weeks.

The warrant officer promotions follow the Department of Defense action in lifting the ceilings on warrant officer advancements.

In Special Orders 226, 9 Nov., the Army released the first increment of warrant officer promotions. These names are published herewith.

Additional promotions will be announced in succeeding Special Orders. Promotions from W-1 to W-2 will be announced in one increment of 200 each week for 6 weeks.

Promotions from W-2 to W-3 will be announced in two increments of 100 weekly for 3 weeks.

Promotions from W-3 to W-4 are contained in SO 226. One supplemental list of 14 names will be announced in the Special Order for 16 November.

Military Pay Front

A Pentagon spokesman, in response to a query from THE JOURNAL, said this week that the Department of Defense has under study the matter of a possible retroactive date for the proposed 10 per cent military pay raise. As introduced, the bill was retroactive to 1 July. As approved by the House Armed Services Committee, it would be effective the first day of the month after enactment—which would mean 1 Feb. 1952 at the earliest.

Whether the Department of Defense will strive for the original 1 July date, which had Bureau of the Budget and White House approval, whether a compromise retroactive date will be sought, or whether the Department will decide not to press for any retroactive date whatsoever still is uncertain.

Meantime, the new National Commander of the American Legion, Donald R. Wilson, has stated that the American Legion will ask Congress to enact a 10 per cent cost-of-living increase, in compensation benefits for veterans and their families.

Navy-Marine Board Plans

Navy and Marine Corps selection board plans, as revealed this week to THE JOURNAL, show that the Marine Corps will not convene any further promotion boards until after the first of the year, and the Navy will convene only two more boards before January.

Currently meeting are Navy boards to select officers of the Dental Corps for promotion to captain, and both line and staff officers (except Supply and Dental) for promotion to the rank of lieutenant commander. The earliest reporting date for these boards is 23 Nov., but it is expected that their work will not be completed before the last week in the month or early in December.

On 4 Dec., the Navy will convene boards to select Supply and Dental Corps officers for promotion to the rank of lieutenant commander. These will be the last boards during the current calendar year.

The first Navy boards during 1952 will be convened on 22 January to name both Line and Staff officers for promotion to lieutenant. Those eligible include all USN and USNR officers on active duty since 1 July 1951.

Marine Corps boards to select officers for promotion to major, captain and first lieutenant will not meet until early next year.

EUCOM Nurse Director

Lt. Col. Agnes A. Maley has been named to succeed Lt. Col. Alta Berninger as Director of Nurses in the European Command.

Too Much Top Rank In D. C., Says Report

The Preparedness Subcommittee of the Senate Armed Services Committee charged this week that there are too many generals and admirals on duty in the Washington, D. C., area.

The matter will not be left with the Subcommittee's report, for Senator Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.), chairman, has informed Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett that open hearings will be held, presumably soon after Congress reconvenes in January.

It is known that at the Pentagon officials already have begun the task of compiling data in response to Senator Johnson's request for a "full study at the highest level" on the assignment of generals and admirals in Washington.

The report of the Senate Subcommittee—printed herewith in full text—states that on 30 Sept. there were 361 general and flag officers and 91,081 Defense Department civilian employees on duty in the Washington area.

By comparison, the Senators said, on 30 April 1945, when the Armed Forces had more than 12,000,000 men and women as against the current strength of less than 3,000,000, there were 397 general and flag officers and 98,071 civilians.

Senator Johnson told Mr. Lovett he was concerned about the number of Army and Air Force colonels and Navy captains who "seem to have as one of their principal assignments acting as 'messenger boys'."

In a letter to the Secretary of Defense, Senator Johnson observed that "at times the impression is created that a substantial portion of high-ranking officers in the Pentagon have been brought to the city for the sole purpose of delivering documents and carrying briefcases for even higher ranking officers who testify before congressional committees."

Undoubtedly, when the open hearing is held by the subcommittee, Defense officials will point out that since V-E Day the creation of a separate Air Force, the establishment of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the Office of the Secretary of Defense with its many agencies such as the Munitions Board, Research and Development Board, etc. has required assignment of a number of generals and admirals who are not serving full time directly with their respective Services.

The Military Aid Program also has required the assignment of numerous officers of relatively high ranks.

In the matter of extra-Service duties, it is reported that of the 139 Army generals on duty in the Washington area as of 30 Sept., more than 25 were assignments not directly under Army control.

Conceivably, the Senate Subcommittee's report may result in an even closer scrutiny by the Senate Armed Services Committee of nominations for promotions to and within general officer ranks.

Detroit News—"Not long ago, opponents of UMT bemoaned it as an entering wedge for the country's militarization. Now the degree of military readiness actually forced on us by the darkening international situation leaves UMT a harbinger of softer times to come, an aspiration achievable only when peace... has returned to the world."

Wilmington (Del.) Morning News—"The commission's efforts have been nothing short of Herculean in the short four months allocated for the job. We can only hope that public and Congressional reaction will be as favorable, as practical, and as quick."

Memphis Commercial Appeal—"Congress ought to do what it can as soon as it can, for the confusions and dislocations we are still experiencing prove beyond all question that UMT would have been a great boon."

Phoenix, Arizona Republic—"It is a great deal too early in the calendar of the present crisis to put the final legislative touches on UMT."

Newark News—"The commission says 'the return of frontier conditions demands a frontier response.' Only the incurably sentimental will disagree."

Asheville (N. C.) Citizen—"Congressmen in their paid-vacation junkets around the world this fall would do well to inquire into UMT or its equivalent abroad. All the major powers have systems of compulsory military training."

Columbus (Ohio) Citizen—"Readiness is the best insurance against war. Universal military training, in this light, is a mainstay for peace."

St. Louis Post-Dispatch—"So long as international tensions compel the nation to maintain such huge peacetime forces as exist today, UMT can be little more than a plan on paper."

THE WAR IN KOREA

SHARP fighting on the western and eastern fronts marked land operations in Korea this week, with no significant change in the battle line. In the west, enemy units in a night attack took temporary possession of a commanding hill, but lost it again when Allied troops counter-attacked the following day. On the extreme eastern end of the line South Korean troops stopped a heavy and determined attack of North Korean Reds, inflicting heavy losses on the enemy.

The U. S. Battleship New Jersey appeared unexpectedly off the west coast of Korea this week and shelled enemy troops inland from the north shore of Taedong Bay. Previously the big battleship had been engaged for months off the east coast. The U. S. Cruiser Toledo and a supporting destroyer pounded enemy shore batteries and troop and supply points in a surprise attack on the enemy-held east coast port of Kojo.

Allied land and carrier-based planes continued to sweep over enemy territory, blasting lines of communications and troop positions. Heavy rain and fog hampered air operations during the first part of the week, but with clearing weather later in the week Allied air activity was greatly accelerated. United Nations air operations were practically unchallenged by enemy aircraft which made almost no appearances during the week.

Mass Murders

A grisly story of almost incredible brutality and deliberate mass murder was revealed this week in a report of Col. Joseph M. Hanley, USA, judge advocate of the Eighth Army in Korea. Colonel Hanley said his office has received authenticated reports of the cold-blooded slaughter of 5,790 United Nations prisoners of war, taken by the enemy during the conflict. This number included 5,500 Americans, but does not include large numbers of South Korean soldiers also murdered after having been taken prisoner, nor thousands of Korean civilians ruthlessly slain by the Reds.

Colonel Hanley estimates that North Korean Reds murdered 3,000 prisoners of war, nearly all Americans, in addition to thousands of South Koreans, up to 1 Nov. 1950. Since that time 2,790 Allied prisoners, not including South Koreans, were murdered, all except 147 by the Chinese Reds.

The largest mass execution by the Chinese occurred on 10 Dec. 1950, when a Chinese regimental commander directed the murder of 200 American Marines who had been taken prisoner by the Reds in Northeast Korea. The judge advocate's report indicates that many of the more than 10,000 Americans reported missing in action may have been among those murdered. This report of the number of prisoners of war slain by the Reds took Washington officials and the Allied high command completely by surprise. There were indications that the estimate of the number slain might be regarded as excessive and might be revised downward.

Despite the horrible atrocities of the enemy the Allies will continue their strict observance of the Geneva Convention in the treatment of the 168,000 Red prisoners of war held by the United Nations. The Chinese Reds are not a party to the Geneva Convention, but have indicated they would observe its provisions in the treatment of prisoners. However, they have never permitted the International Red Cross to inspect prison camps.

Army Helicopters Busy

During the first 10 months of this year, three Eighth Army helicopter units evacuated 4,326 wounded from frontline areas.

One pilot, 1st Lt. Joseph L. Bowler, is credited with evacuating 806 men from January through October. With Lt. Col. James M. Brown, commanding officer of Mobile Army Surgical Hospital Unit 8063, he perfected a system for giving blood transfusions to the seriously wounded while flying from battle sectors to rear area medical aid stations.

Says Maj. Gen. George E. Armstrong, Army Surgeon General: "With the helicopter it is possible to evacuate routinely, seriously wounded patients from clearing, collecting and aid stations and from the front lines in advance of the battalion aid stations."

creased somewhat this week, there were no major operations in progress and no important changes in battle positions. The Reds took the initiative and launched local attacks of considerable strength at several points, with light probing attacks and aggressive patrolling elsewhere.

Action in the West

In the west, a sudden night attack by the enemy dislodged an Allied unit from an advance hill position, but Red losses were so great that they were unable to retain the ground won, and they were quickly routed by a strong Allied counter-attack the following day. Hundreds of enemy dead were found in the area.

A light enemy probing attack west of Korangpo-ri was repulsed. West of Chorwon an enemy attack, supported by tank, artillery and mortar fire, was also stopped by the Allies.

Southeast of Kumsong enemy patrols made numerous light probing attacks, in strength varying from a squad to a company. All were repulsed. Enemy contact along the remainder of the central front was relatively light, as United Nations troops maintained their positions, with tank and infantry units probing into enemy territory.

Heaviest ground action of the week developed in the area south of Kosong, where five enemy battalions, composed of North Korean Reds, launched a coordinated attack on a three-mile front against South Korean troops. The attack began about midnight and was strongly supported by artillery and mortar fire. After a sharp fight lasting four and one-half hours, the initial enemy attack was repulsed. Subsequently, the attack was resumed, but again repulsed. More than 600 enemy dead were counted in front of five Allied positions, and more than 400 enemy small arms and machine guns were captured.

Six probing attacks by platoon-sized enemy units were repulsed northwest of the Punch Bowl. On other sections of the eastern front, enemy contact was relatively light. United Nations units in this sector adjusted their positions and continued to patrol into Red territory.

Navy Strikes

Unexpected attacks were made by heavy surface units of the Allied Navy this week in two widely separated areas. The U. S. Battleship New Jersey moved swiftly from the east coast to the west, and shelled enemy positions on Taedong Bay in Western Korea, while the U. S. Heavy Cruiser Toledo began a devastating bombardment of enemy shore batteries at Kojo on the east coast.

The New Jersey poured more than 40 tons of high explosives on enemy troops several miles inland in the Songchon-ni area on the north shore of Taedong Bay. During the action the battleship fired its 3,000th 16-inch round since its participation in the Korean war. Australian navy planes from the Carrier Sydney furnished air spotting, and reported excellent results from the bombardment.

The Toledo steamed off Kojo on the east coast and opened fire on enemy gun emplacements. Three shore batteries were hit and silenced by the cruiser's 8-inch shells. An ammunition dump in this area was also hit and large secondary explosions were observed. The Destroyer Halsey Powell, accompanying the Toledo, registered hits on troops and numerous supply buildings.

The U. S. Destroyers Swenson, Hyman, and Mansfield pounded the enemy east coast port of Wonsan, wrecking buildings and damaging bridges, as well as inflicting numerous enemy casualties. At Hungnam the U. S. Destroyer Tingey destroyed a bridge span and cut railway lines.

At the eastern extremity of the battle line near Kosong, the U. S. Destroyer De Haven rendered effective gunfire support to South Korean ground troops. Air observers reported direct hits on troops and supplies in buildings along the coast.

Canadian Destroyer

On the northern portion of the west coast, the Canadian Destroyer Athabaskan pounded enemy troop positions near Yongsapo on the Cholsan peninsula. The British Frigate Whitesand Bay hit enemy installations on the north and south shores of Taedong Bay.

Navy aircraft from the U. S. Heavy Carriers Bon Homme Richard and Antietam hit railroads, bypasses, locomotives and boxcars near Hamhung. Other sweeps were made by these carrier-based planes along the coastal railroads and highways in northeastern Korea, inflicting heavy damage to railroads, rolling stock and vehicular traffic.

Although hampered by rain, snow and fog during much of the week, Allied flyers of the Far East Air Force continued their interdiction program, with attacks on enemy transportation facilities throughout North Korea, whenever weather conditions permitted. On days when the weather cleared the United Nations land planes flew round-the-clock missions to further their permanent effort to isolate front-line enemy troops from their sources of supply.

American B-29 Superforts from Japan and Okinawa attacked new enemy airfields in Northwest Korea, dropping radar-aimed 100-lb. demolition bombs on runways and revetments at Taechon and Namsi. Other medium bombers attacked Red military installations at Sinmak and Sibyon-ni.

Allied light bombers made successful night attacks on supply trains and truck convoys, while fighter-bombers flew many close support missions in aid of Allied ground troops along the battle line.

In a summary of last week's air operations the Far East Air Force this week announced that in the seven-day period from 4 Nov. to 10 Nov., inclusive, 5,650 sorties were flown by land planes under its control. In approximately 15 air-to-air encounters in four days of last week American and Australian jet fighters shot down 6 MIG-15s, probably destroyed two others, and damaged 15, while losing one F-86 Sabre Jet and one F-84 Thunder Jet.

THE EUROPEAN THEATER

GENERAL BRADLEY, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, went to Europe at mid-week to join the considerable number of civilian and military chiefs conferring at SHAPE and elsewhere in preparation for the convocation of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization which opened in Rome on Friday. Accompanying General Bradley on leaving Washington were Air Chief Marshal Sir William Elliot, British Representative on the Standing Group, Vice Admiral Arthur C. Davis, chief of the Joint Staff, and members of General Bradley's office staff.

While this entire party is concerned fundamentally with the military problems of NATO, they cannot ignore the disturbing economic problems (particularly in France) which were discussed earlier in the week at SHAPE among General Eisenhower, Secretary of State Acheson, Defense Secretary Lovett, W. Averell Harriman, director of the Mutual Security Agency, and others. These talks dealt largely with the prospect in France, which immediately after enlarging its military budget found its expected grants from America sharply reduced by Congress. The conjunction of all these civilian authorities was largely accidental, for Secretary Lovett's journey had been planned long ago, but it afforded General Eisenhower an opportunity to lay before these important policy-makers (as he had before Secretary of the Army Frank Pace a week earlier) his own strong views on the necessity of maintaining the economy of our NATO allies if we are to get from them their fullest military cooperation.

Boldness Well Rewarded

If economic aspects affect military planning, certainly as much must be said of grand-scale political events. Hence one cannot ignore the surprising boldness of the western world's representatives in the General Assembly of the United Nations at its Paris meetings during the past ten days. As often happens in any field of operations, boldness was well rewarded, for Russia and her satellites have been soundly thumped on a half a dozen issues. It is with some surprise that one sees this sort of thing going on in the General Assembly. At the beginning The Assembly was thought to be of less importance than the Security Council, by reason of the latter's express powers, its smaller membership, its continuity of meetings and the powerful veto which is granted each of the Big Five, still so called, in the Security Council. It is curious that Russia has for years so abused the veto power as to discourage the intended full use of the Security Council and, instead, to drive into the larger General Assembly full discussion of the very issues which Russia is most anxious to keep dark. This past week has provided a record which can give Russian diplomacy little reason to strut, and must have caused satellites to wonder why Moscow has been so foolish as to risk such a beating. This applies not only to vote after vote—running in favor of the western world, but to the discussions, widely published and containing a great deal of plain talk affording Moscow little satisfaction.

Turkey during the past week made public the sharply worded text of her reply to the Russian protest against Turkey's new membership in NATO. The Turks deny all Moscow's factual assertions of Turkish "aggressive" behavior, and invite attention to what Russia and her satellites have been doing to increase (Continued on Next Page)

European Theater

Turkish anxieties and induce Turkey to welcome a western defensive alliance.

The long expected agreement between the United States and Yugoslavia was announced by the State Department at mid-week. It will lead to much fuller American military aid to Yugoslavia, (some has already gone, informally), but without present definition of the amount — the Congress' $7,328,900,000 foreign aid appropriation measure having permitted only that an unstated sum be diverted from the general fund allotment to Europe. The new agreement with Tito permits the presence at Belgrade of a U. S. Military Mission, as small as practicable, largely to check officially on the expenditure of funds. Marshal Tito's hopes are known to include new tanks, jet aircraft, and harbor craft: there is no law against hoping.

The United States announced this week the presentation of our second note of protest against the murder of an American corporal, Paul Gressens, in Vienna last May. The first note was sent on 4 June, and was answered on 6 August by a Russian denial of responsibility, holding that the American corporal (on international patrol duty at the time) had been killed by two Russians in "self defense." Weeks have been spent in breaking down the Russian declaration, and presenting a new and firm declaration that the killing was unjustified, and that not only were Russians responsible for it, but that Russian authorities have impeded the investigation as much as possible, in an unsuccessful effort to conceal the facts.

POW Cards

Identification cards for military, civilian and protected personnel, for use in the event of capture by the enemy, have been developed for issuance by the military services.

The new cards, DD Forms 489 and 528, will be issued to all persons who in time of war serve with or accompany a United States Armed Force in the field and who are liable to capture by the enemy.

One card, Form 528, will be used for military personnel and protected personnel (medical, chaplains, certain Red Cross and voluntary personnel).

The other card, Form 489, will be used for civilian employees, consultants, contractors' personnel and other civilian non-combatants.

The format of the cards is based upon the Geneva Convention of 12 August, 1949, relative to the protection of war victims. The U. S. government is a signatory power to this convention.

Each such individual liable to capture will be provided two identification cards, one of which will be surrendered to capturing authorities to facilitate the treatment and protection of the individual, and the other copy for retention by the individual.

Since the Geneva Convention provides that prisoners of war are to be treated with the regard due to rank and age, military-civilian grade relationships have been established for this purpose based on the respective civilian and military statutory salary ranges of employees of the Department of Defense.

General's Son Decorated

Capt. John D. Miley, son of Maj. Gen. William M. Miley, USA, has been awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action against the Communist forces in Korea.

Captain Miley, as commanding officer of Company G, 187th Airborne Regimental Combat Team, distinguished himself by gallantry in action against the enemy in the vicinity of Paruh-ni, Korea, on 25 March 1951. Subsequent to the action which earned him the Silver Star, he was severely wounded and has been evacuated to the United States. He is now in Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C., for treatment.

BILINGUAL ARMY

The Canadian Army is probably the only army in the world in which words of command in two languages are officially recognized. English-speaking Canadian units use the same words of command as are used by the British Army, but for every English command there is a French equivalent.

"Long Horn" Chief Umpire

Brig. Gen. Sterling A. Wood, USA, Assistant Commander, Fifth Armored Division, Camp Chaffee, Ark., as chief of umpires, has reported to Fourth Army headquarters, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., to work on the intricate details for the umpire group which will evaluate the joint Army and Air Force "Long Horn" maneuver next spring.

Exercise "Long Horn"—the major training maneuver of 1952—will be staged at Fort Hood, Tex., and surrounding territory in March and April.

Lt. Gen. LeRoy Lutes, USA, Commanding General, Fourth Army, was named by General Mark Clark, USA, Chief of Army Ground Forces, as director of the maneuver, while Maj. Gen. Edward J. Timberlake, USAF, Commander of the Ninth Air Force, was selected as deputy director, by Lt. Gen. John A. Cannon, USAF, Commanding General Tactical Air Command.

Heads New OCSigO

Col. Harry L. Vitzthum, formerly Assistant Chief, Procurement and Distribution Division, Office of the Chief Signal Officer, has been designated Chief of Operations Review Division, organized this month.

Other officers transferred to duty in the new division include Lt. Col. John L. Leidenheimer, Lt. Col. Ray M. Bagley, Capt. Walter Rybka, all formerly of Procurement and Distribution Division, and Lt. Col. Allen T. Stanwix-Hay, who had been with Special Assignment Group (Boards and Committees) since his arrival from Ft. Monmouth, N. J., where he had been Chief of the Signal Corps Publications Agency.

In his new duties, Colonel Vitzthum studies and evaluates the operations of all activities under control of the Chief Signal Officer, both departmental and field.

WAFS at Pentagon

The WAF-Airman replacement program has resulted in assignment to the Pentagon of 244 WAFS. They have replaced 283 male airmen.

A new increment of 60 WAFS will be assigned to Headquarters Command in January 1952.

SS. Washington Begins "Diaper Run" to Europe

The 30,000-ton passenger liner SS Washington, once a luxury vessel, but with accommodations now described as "austere," has been placed into the service of the Military Sea Transportation Service on the "diaper run" to Europe.

The huge vessel, one-time queen of the U. S. passenger fleet, will be operated by U. S. Lines under the supervision of MSTs to help reduce the backlog of thousands of military dependents waiting transportation to Europe.

For her initial trip, the SS Washington had 1,100 passengers, more than half of whom were children, 12 years of age or younger. The other passengers were women, mostly the mothers of the youngsters.

Meantime, from Japan comes word that 76 dependent families—the first to arrive since the resumption of dependent travel—were due to arrive in Japan this month.

Fifty-seven of the arriving families are dependents of Army personnel and the remainder are Air Force dependents. There are no Navy families in this group.

The largest number of families destined for any single area is the group of 17 sponsored by armed forces personnel in Tokyo. Sixteen families are to remain in the Yokohama area. The other families will go to the different camp and installation housing areas throughout Japan at which their sponsors are stationed.

The Troop Movement Division of the 2d Transportation Major Port is not overlooking any details to add to the smoothness of the reception of the newly arrived families. Port officials will arrange every step in the operation, from meeting the sponsors as they arrive at the Yokohama railroad station to boarding the ship in midstream to answer any questions the families may have and supply them with information about debarking and money exchange.

Port authorities also will distribute new orientation booklets which just were printed but could not be shipped to the United States in time to be distributed there. The books supply information about life in Japan, proper conduct and relations with the Japanese people.

A-Bomb Effects

What to expect from an atom bomb explosion is set forth in a fact sheet issued by Headquarters III Corps in connection with Exercise Desert Rock now in progress at the Atomic Energy Commission's Nevada Test Site northwest of Las Vegas.

The exercise is under the command of Maj. Gen. William B. Kean, commanding general of the III Corps. Participating in the simulated atomic warfare maneuver is a reinforced battalion combat team numbering approximately 1,000.

The fact sheet states:

The bomb has three types of effects: blast, thermal, and nuclear radiation.

a. Blast: the air wave at the observation point is no more than that from a sudden, fairly strong gust of wind. The noise is that of a loud clap of thunder.

b. Thermal, or heat wave.

(1) Light glare: Individuals will be required to turn away from the point of burst and wait for three seconds following the detonation before looking toward the fireball. Those who fail to obey this instruction may be unable to see for some minutes. This is much the same effect as you get from watching the explosion of a photographer's flash bulb, although it could be considerably magnified in its effects.

(2) Heat: a sensitive individual may feel a wave of warm air. Others will feel no heat.

c. Nuclear Radiation.

(1) There will be no danger from radiation to the troops at their observation point.

(2) Trained monitors will precede the troops when they move closer to the point of detonation and no troops will be permitted to enter any area where they might be endangered by residual radiation, nor will they be permitted to remain in any area where possibly endangered.

Commands Camp Ritchie

Col. G. V. Sottong, Acting Chief of the Pennsylvania Military District, has been appointed Post Commander of Camp Ritchie, Md.

Colonel Sottong recently completed over 21 months' service with the Second Army Area during which time he served as Chief of the Western Pennsylvania Sub-District with headquarters in Pittsburgh. He was later appointed Acting Chief of the Pennsylvania Military District with headquarters in Philadelphia, which was later moved to Indiantown Gap Military Reservation.

Re-Up Bonus Ruling

The Army Chief of Finance has dispatched the following message to the field concerning the bonus for indefinite reenlistments.

"1. Act of 26 October 1951 (Public Law 217, 82nd Congress) provides that enlisted members in an enlistment for an unspecified period of time entered into prior to 1 October 1949, shall be paid $110.00 upon first anniversary date of such enlistment subsequent to 30 September 1949 and $60.00 upon each anniversary date thereafter, subject to limitation that total amount paid after 1 October 1949 shall not exceed $1,440.00. Example, members enlisted for an unspecified time 21 October 1947 and currently serving in enlistment would now be entitled to $230. Payment may be made first regular pay day after receipt of this message or immediately if member so desires.

"2. Act provides also any member to whom reenlistment bonus is paid and who voluntarily or as result of his own misconduct does not complete term of enlistment for which bonus was paid, shall be liable to refund such part of bonus, less federal or state income taxes. No collection action need to be taken until such time as instructions are disseminated giving method of computation. Regulation will be amended to conform with above."

Col. Peddicord To England

Col. Everett Peddicord, Army Field Forces liaison officer at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., since May 1949, will leave the Proving Ground early in December for London, England, where he will be a student in the British Imperial Defense College.

Colonel Peddicord will attend a course of study at the London school beginning in late January and lasting one year. Prior to arriving at APG, he was chief of the United States Military Advisory Team to the Greek "A" Army Corps, during the post-World War II strife in Greece.

Commands Army Hospital

Col. Walter C. Royals has been appointed Commanding Officer of William Beaumont Army Hospital, Ft. Bliss, Tex. Colonel Royals assumed temporary command of the hospital on 16 Sept., succeeding Col. James E. Yarbrough, who was reassigned as department surgeon for Hawaii.

The new Commanding Officer came to WBAH from Oliver General Hospital, Augusta, Ga., in May 1950 as Chief of the Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Section of the Surgical Service.

Col. Sutherland, Chief

Col. Edwin Malcolm Sutherland, Inf., has been named Chief of the Pennsylvania Military District. He replaces Col. George V. Sottong, who has assumed command of Fort Ritchie, Md.

Prior to this assignment, Colonel Sutherland served for two years as Army Attache to India, with headquarters in New Delhi.

UNITED STATES ARMY

Heavier Planes for Army

The Army and Air Force have reached an agreement which stresses that in the future "performance of functions" and not "specific weight restrictions" will be the criterion for purchase of Army aircraft.

This will mean that the Army will have heavier planes for its employment in transportation, observation, etc. than previously.

The following statement was made public concerning this development:

"The Army and the Air Force are in agreement that the specific weight restrictions on Army aircraft as outlined in existing regulations are no longer governing and that the performance of functions is the paramount consideration.

"In view of this fact the Air Force is currently procuring liaison airplanes and helicopters for Army use, which are heavier than those formerly procured. This action has been taken with the concurrence of the civilian and military leaders of both Departments.

"A memorandum of understanding has been drawn up between Mr. Finletter and Mr. Pace, and is now being used as a basis for staff agencies of both services to prepare the necessary revised joint regulations."

First For Aviation Section

The first unit citation ever awarded specifically to an Army aviation section has been presented to the Light Aviation Section, Headquarters Company, 7th Infantry Division, for action in the Chosin Reservoir area of Korea.

The section—composed of now outmoded L-5 and L-16 type planes—received the Distinguished Unit citation for its role in rescuing more than 800 critically wounded men from an enemy trap between 28 Nov. and 5 Dec., 1950.

During World War II, aviation sections were organic parts of Artillery units only. Now they are parts of Infantry, Armor, Engineer, Signal Corps and Ordnance units, in addition to Artillery.

Joins N. Y. POE Staff

Maj. James C. Bayliss, a veteran of Korea, has been assigned to the New York Port of Embarkation as Commanding Officer of the Station Complement. He replaces Maj. Albert I. Rodgers, veteran transport commander, who has been assigned to the U. S. Forces in Austria.

During a 10-month assignment with the 25th Division in Korea, Major Bayliss served as a Company Commander, an Assistant Battalion Plans and Training Officer, Battalion Executive Officer, and Liaison Officer with the 27th Division.

Maximum Christmas Leaves

Army units and installations within the continental limits of the United States will suspend training for a 10-day period, beginning at noon, 22 Dec., and ending the morning of 2 Jan. 1952. It is announced by Assistant Secretary of the Army Earl D. Johnson.

The Army said the suspension of training activities during the period is to allow military personnel to take leave during the Christmas holiday season, but that this will be contingent upon the international situation at the time.

Commanding officers will insure that minimum operational requirements are met and will determine the number of military personnel who may safely be absent from the commands at one time.

Within the obvious limitations of this policy, the Army said, "maximum possible leave will be granted to individuals."

Critical Housing Areas

The Defense Production Administration has certified the Fort Bragg, N. C., area and the Fort Meade-Laurel, Md., area as critical defense housing areas under Public Law 139 for relaxation of housing credit restrictions, more liberal mortgage insurance benefits, and community aids.

Both areas were certified by Director of Defense Mobilization Charles E. Wilson within the provisions of a delegation of authority from the President.

Government findings in the two areas follow:

1. Fort Bragg, N. C., area, including Cumberland and Hoke Counties, with a 1950 population of 110,000.

Since the start of Korean hostilities, the military complements of Fort Bragg and its Air Force installation, Pope Field, have more than doubled, and further expansion is anticipated. A corresponding, but smaller, increase in civilian employees also has been recorded at or near the base.

Because of this, a substantial housing shortage exists, throughout the area. There are long waiting lists for all on-post housing, which is now fully occupied. At present several thousand military personnel are commuting as much as 30 or 40 miles daily because of the lack of near-by housing. In addition, many soldiers have been unable to find accommodations for their families and a shortage of hundreds of family units has developed.

The near-by city of Fayetteville has increased its population 98 per cent since 1940.

2. Fort Meade-Laurel, Md., area, including Districts 10 and 14 in Prince Georges County, and Districts 4 and 5 in Anne Arundel County. Total 1950 population for the area was 55,000.

A steady influx of military personnel since June 1950 has aggravated the already existing housing shortage.

One thousand family dwelling units under military control are fully occupied and have a waiting list of several hundred. Some 700 additional families of men at the post occupy housing outside reasonable commuting distance.

Move III Corps

The III Corps is being moved from Camp Roberts, Calif., to Ft. MacArthur, Calif. The move is being taken because of better transportation and communications facilities at the latter post.

VC Function Questioned

The Senate Armed Services Preparedness Subcommittee has questioned as "wasteful duplication" the practice of Army Veterinary Corps personnel grading poultry products even though it has been inspected and graded already by the Agriculture Department.

The subcommittee said "the spectacle of a member of the Veterinary Corps following an employee of the Department of Agriculture to inspect the same lot of chickens should be eliminated."

Department of the Army Counselor F. Schackelford, in communications to Senator Lyndon Johnson (D.-Tex.) has given the reasons for the dual inspections. It was emphasized that duplications are being eliminated wherever possible, but that certain double inspections are required because of the following factors:

"1. Army grading standards are usually higher than commercial standards applied by the Department of Agriculture. This is understandable since poultry and other supplies for the Department of Defense must be capable of undergoing longtime storage and multiple handling often under adverse conditions.

"2. Agriculture grading personnel are not trained to inspect and supervise the required packaging, packing, and shipping of the final products. These packaging, packing, and shipping requirements of the armed services are an important factor due to storage and transportation conditions already mentioned. Neither of these requirements is encountered in ordinary commercial operations.

"3. Agriculture grading personnel are, as already stated, not qualified to determine sanitary standards within any plant nor are they trained to inspect the processing of poultry such as freezing or canning. . . .

"Inspections by the Army veterinary service are arranged in advance of production and every effort is made to avoid any delay within plants. While not all members of this Veterinary Corps are professional veterinarians, nonveterinarians are given extensive courses in food inspection and grading. The work done by them is under the direct supervision and control of a qualified veterinarian.

There are, moreover, other factors which justify the continuance of the present military inspection and grading operations. The necessity for overseas procurement of food supplies to support military operations requires that qualified military personnel be available for this inspection and grading. There is, therefore, a real need for on-the-job training within the zone of interior of these military personnel to prepare them for overseas operations and to keep their skills current.

"The Department of the Army is very much aware of the need for the elimination of any duplication of identical effort and will continue to utilize the inspection service of the Department of Agriculture to the full extent consistent with adequately meeting the Department of the Army requirements."

Major's Daughter WAC Lt.

Nancy D. Maguire, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. C. F. Maguire, (USA-Ret.), of 40-51 Denman Street, Elmhurst, N. Y., recently received her Second Lieutenantcy in the WAC Reserve from Col. H. A. Cooney, Chief of New York Military District.

Lieutenant Maguire is the first woman to be commissioned in the New York Military District under the new Army regulations enabling women college graduates with no previous military experience to qualify for reserve commissions. She will report the early part of January to Ft. Lee, Va., for WAC officers' training.

Bill Would End Quirk In Reserve Retirements

Senator Harry Cain (R-Wash.), a member of the Armed Services Committee introduced during the final day of the first session of the 82d Congress a bill (S. 2346) to authorize retirement of non-Regular Army and Air Force officers with more than 30 years' service under the same conditions now in effect for officers with less than 30 years' service.

The present situation is that non-Regular officers with more than 30 years' service are accorded less favorable retirement than that granted to officers with less service.

This complex difficulty is described in detail in an analysis of the situation, inserted into the Congressional Record by Senator Cain. The text of the analysis, prepared by Assistant Legislative Counsel John C. Herberg, follows:

Section 5 of the act of 31 July, 1935 (49 Stat. 507, as amended; 10 U. S. C. 943a) provides in pertinent part that non-Regular officers of the Army must be retired in the discretion of the Secretary of the Army when they have completed "not less than 20 or more than 30 years' active Federal service in the Armed Forces of the United States, at least 10 years of which shall have been active commissioned service." Officers who qualify for retirement under that provision receive retired pay equal to 2½ percent of the active duty base and longevity pay "of the rank with which retired" multiplied by the number of years of service credited to them for pay purposes, not to exceed a total of 75 percent of such active duty base and longevity pay.

If Colonel Cox were eligible to retire under that section, and did in fact retire prior to 1 January, 1957, he would be eligible under subsection 203 (f) of the Army and Air Force Vitalization and Retirement Equalization Act of 1948 (Public Law 810, 80th Cong.) to be retired in the temporary grade held at the time of his retirement, and to receive retirement pay based on that grade. Thus he could retire with the grade and retired pay of a lieutenant colonel. As the enlisted and commissioned active service of Colonel Cox now exceeds 30 years, he cannot qualify for retirement under section 5 of the act of 31 July, 1935, as amended.

As stated in the attached third endorsement of the Adjutant General, dated 12 July, 1950, Colonel Cox is eligible for reenlistment and retirement as a master sergeant. If he were to follow that course, he would upon retirement be advanced on the retired list, pursuant to subsection 203 (e) of the Army and Air Force Vitalization and Retirement Equalization Act of 1948, to the highest temporary grade held by him between 9 September, 1940, and 30 June, 1946, and he would be eligible to receive retirement pay at the rate prescribed by law for his length of service at the time of retirement but based upon such temporary commissioned grade. Thus, in determining his retired grade and pay he would receive no benefit from any temporary promotion received by him after 30 June, 1946. Moreover, as subsection 4 (c) of the Armed Forces Leave Act of 1946 (37 U. S. C., 33 (c)) affirmatively prohibits the making of a cash settlement for unused accrued leave in the case of any person discharged for the purpose of entering into an enlistment in his branch of the Armed Forces, Colonel Cox would lose the benefit of payment for his accrued leave computed on the basis of his active duty pay as a commissioned officer. However, his present unused leave could be carried over into his enlistment as a master sergeant, and upon retirement as an enlisted man he would be granted such payment based upon the active duty base and longevity pay of a master sergeant.

The distinction in treatment described above appears to be the result of the historical evolution of the pertinent statutes. Prior to 1935, commissioned officers of the Regular Army could retire for years of service only after the completion of 30 years' service, and such retirement was accomplished under section 1243 of the Revised Statutes (10 U. S. C. 943) in the permanent grade held at the time of retirement, with retirement pay equal to 75 percent of the base and longevity pay of that grade. In 1935 that section was supplemented by a provision (49 Stat. 507; 10 U. S. C. 943a) which permitted commissioned officers of the Regular Army to retire in their permanent grades if they had served not less than 15 or more than 29 years, with retired pay computed at the rate of 2½ percent of their active duty pay in such grades multiplied by the number of their years of active service credited for pay purposes. Section 202 of the Army and Air Force Vitalization and Retirement Equalization Act of 1948 amended that provision (1) to apply only to officers having not less than 20 or more than 30 years' service, and (2) to permit non-Regular officers to retire thereunder if they had completed at least 10 years of active commissioned service. No comparable amendment was made to section 1243 of the Revised Statutes to permit non-Regular officers to retire thereunder after more than 30 years' active service. Accordingly, under present law non-Regular officers of the Army having more than 30 years' active service are accorded less favorable retirement than that granted to such officers who have less than 30 years' service, and are therefore eligible for retirement pursuant to section 5 of the act of 1935, as amended by section 202 of the Army and Air Force Vitalization and Retirement Equalization Act of 1948.

If proposed legislation is desired to accord to non-Regular commissioned officers having more than 30 years' service the same benefits now available to such officers having less than 30 years' service, it is suggested that such result could be obtained by a bill which would (a) repeal section 1243 of the Revised Statutes; and (b) strike from section 5 of the act of 31 July, 1935, as amended, the limiting phrase "or more than 30," thereby making that section the basis for the retirement for years of service of all commissioned officers having more than 20 years' service.

Respectfully submitted.

ELECTRIC BOAT takes to the air

Long recognized as America's oldest and largest builder of submarines, Electric Boat Company has added another activity to its efforts in behalf of hemispheric defense.

EBCo's great airplane manufacturing subsidiary, Canadair Limited, at Montreal, Canada, is now engaged in producing military aircraft on a major scale.

Shown here is the F-86 "Sabre," being built by Canadair for the Royal Canadian Air Force under license from North American Aviation, Inc. This super-streamlined jet fighter holds the official world's speed record of 670 m.p.h. with full combat load.

At Canadair as at EBCo's other plants, a continuing program of product development and improvement is under way to make us ever stronger in the protection of our liberties.

The reporting selection board for Medical Corps officers was composed of Rear Adm. S. S. Cook, president, and Captains James F. Hays, Thomas F. Cooper, C. B. Morrison, H. V. Packard, F. R. Moore and W. E. Kellum.

Chaplain Corps officers who sat on the reporting selection board for ChC officers were: Rear Adm. W. N. Thomas, president, and Captains G. I. Markle, E. B. Harp, Jr., L. F. Gerhart and P. G. Linaweaver.

Commission First "Killer"

The first of a new class of post-war submarines has been placed in commission by the Navy at the Submarine Base, New London, Conn. It is the USS K-1, a "killer" vessel designed expressly for the purpose of hunting out and destroying enemy undersea craft.

About half the size of the standard World War II fleet type submarine, the new sub is loaded with the latest in electronic and sonar detection equipment. The Navy said the ship will not go out to track down enemy surface shipping but "will lie in wait in the depths for invading enemy submarines."

The K-1 is commanded by Lt. Comdr. Frank A. Andrews, USN, of 3 Oak Street, Groton Long Point, Conn., and her Executive Officer is Lt. Roy B. Cowdrey, 44 Round Hill Road, Groton. Assigned to the Submarine Force, Atlantic Fleet, the vessel will be based at New London. The Navy said the letter designation "K" (rather than a name) marks a partial return to the practice of classing submarines by letter.

Contract for the vessel was first signed in August 1948, and her keel was laid down on 1 July of the next year at the Groton Plant of the Electric Boat Company. On 2 March 1951, she was launched, and trial runs were recently conducted off Provincetown, Mass., by a crew of civilian employees of the Electric Boat Company, directed by Rear Adm. T. B. Klakring, USN(Ret).

Aide to Asst SecNav

Capt. John S. Thach, one of the twenty-one Naval officers who testified during the Congressional B-36 hearings, has been ordered to new duty as Aide to Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air John F. Floberg.

A Naval Aviator, currently serving as Chief Staff Officer for Carrier Division 17 in Korean waters, Captain Thach is the brother of Rear Adm. James Harmon Thach, Jr. He is the second officer from among those who testified at that time to be recently assigned to duty in a top Navy office. Rear Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, whose testimony during the inter-service investigation immediately preceded that of Captain Thach, has been ordered to duty in the Office of the Chief of Naval Operations.

During the Congressional hearings, Captain Thach revealed that United States Naval air power, "With the same aircraft weight pound for pound, . . . can, on a bombing mission, put five times greater bomb load over the target than an enemy could carry to targets in this country." He said, "This is true because we possess aircraft carriers and the carrier takes the airplane most of the way to the target. Therefore it does not have to carry the tremendous gasoline load and it can be much smaller."

He emphasized that "because no possible enemy possesses Naval Air Power it is our greatest assurance that we can fight an aggressor on the other side of the world and not in the United States."

UnderSecNav Lauds Marines

Under Secretary of the Navy Francis P. Whitehair told Marines at Camp Lejeune, N. C., last week-end that they "have a particular kind of 'built-in' courage and spirit and ability to perform that sets them apart from everyone else."

On the occasion of the 176th Anniversary of the Marine Corps, Mr. Whitehair remarked that the Corps had recently been taken to task "for some matters on which a little kindly criticism may well have been deserved." He said the corrective action suggested in a Senate Preparedness Subcommittee report is being "conscientiously" taken "as quickly as we are able."

He told personnel of the Marine Barracks at Camp Lejeune that the "Members of Congress and every American expect the Marine Corps to be 100 percent perfect." He said, "You're convinced you are, and you've convinced the rest of the country you are—and you must live up to your goal!"

Duty-Free Wine

For Admirals

[From the London Times, 7 Nov.]

Admirals are entitled, under statutory provisions, to 1,200 gallons of duty-free wine a year, according to evidence given to the Committee of Public Accounts.

Asked what percentage they took up, Mr. R. J. Lloyd, Accountant and Comptroller-General, Board of Customs and Excise, replied: "The total consumption of wine involves duty of about £25,000 a year, so obviously the admirals cannot take very much."

Mr. James H. Hoy (a member of the committee). — Why? £25,000 duty will represent a terrible lot of wine, will it not?

Mr. Lloyd.—There are a lot of admirals.

An Admiralty spokesman explained later that it was an 1876 Act that allowed admirals 1,200 gallons of duty-free wine a year. The reason for the privilege was obscure, but it was thought that they might have been allowed the wine for the use of the Navy as a whole or possibly for official entertainment.

Navy Dentist Certified

Comdr. Robert A. Colby, DC, USN, head of the Medico-Dental Sciences Division at the Naval Dental School, National Naval Medical Center, Bethesda, Md., recently passed an examination for certification given by the American Board of Oral Pathology. Commander Colby is the only officer in the Naval Dental Corps certified as a specialist by that Board.

Commander Colby resides with his wife and family at 205 Chandler Street, Bethesda.

Marines Make Landing

Men of the Second Marine Division stormed onto Onslow Beach, N. C., this week in the biggest amphibious assault landing since the end of World War II.

The climax of the Atlantic Fleet's annual winter sea games saw a new landing technique put into use by the Marine Corps in an effort to combat the atomic bomb. Assault boats of the force surged toward the beaches Indian-file instead of the boats-abreast fashion normally employed by the Leathernecks. Although the initial assault impact was reduced, the Marines hoped to provide better protection for their men from an underwater atomic explosion.

A theoretical seven per cent of the assault force was lost, however, before the first wave reached the beaches. An atomic bomb, its simulated flare lighting up the ships off-shore, wiped out about 1,500 of the 20,000-man force. The Navy did not disclose the extent of the theoretical damage inflicted on its ships.

The landing forces were under the overall command of Lt. Gen. Graves B. Erskine, Commanding General, Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic, and the Second Marine Division, major element of the attacking force, was commanded by Maj. Gen. Ray A. Robinson.

During the week-long attack, the invading Marines were pitted against an "enemy" force of Army and Marine troops commanded by Brig. Gen. Gregor A. Williams, only recently returned from a Korean command. The core of the maneuver enemy was a specially-trained Army Aggressor cadre from Ft. Riley, Kans.

The invading forces were faced with the task of establishing a beachhead, bridging an Intracoastal Waterway, and making an assault crossing of the New River, before pushing inland against the "enemy" Black forces.

Marine troops were landed on the beaches by attack transports under the command of Vice Adm. Robert P. Briscoe. During their voyage from Vieques, P. R., where they had undergone three weeks of intensive training, the Marine force was attacked by Black aircraft. Seven of the planes, five patrol bombers and two unidentified snoopers, were shot down by the second carrier striking force under command of Rear Adm. Daniel J. Gallery, Jr.

The first carrier task group, commanded by Rear Adm. Austin K. Doyle, lost two destroyers to the Black Force submarines, but the carrier Cabot's anti-submarine patrol surprised one of the Black subs on the surface and put it out of action.

The operation on Onslow Beach and the entire Lantflex maneuver will end on 20 November, next week.

Dedicate Marine Memorial

Dedication ceremonies were held on 10 Nov. at the Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, for the recently completed Iwo Jima Memorial statue, located at the junction of U. S. Highway One and the main entrance to the Schools.

Executed in Indiana limestone by the noted sculptor Felix de Weldon, the statue portrays the historic flag-raising ceremony during the Iwo Jima operation.

Lt. Gen. Franklin A. Hart, Commandant of the Marine Corps Schools, who served at Iwo as assistant commander of the Fourth Marine Division, made the opening remarks. He introduced Lt. Gen. Keller E. Rockey, USMC (Ret), who was commanding general of the division during the Iwo campaign. General Rockey made the dedicatory address and unveiled the statue.

Comdr. Charles D. Beatty (ChC) USN, gave the invocation; Comdr. Joshua L. Goldberg (ChC) USN, the Memorial Prayer; and Lt. Comdr. Miles T. Welch (ChC) USN, the Benediction. Music was furnished by the Marine Corps Schools Band.

Navy Ration Allowances

The Navy has established commuted ration and leave ration rates for enlisted personnel, as well as hospital ration rates, at one dollar twenty cents. The rates went into effect on 1 Nov.

Notify the Army Navy Air Force Journal promptly of changes of address so your subscription will follow you.

Navy Releases Reservists

Enlisted Naval Reservists who are veterans and who were not in a drill pay status when ordered to active duty will be separated from active Naval service upon completion of 16 months active service since start of the Korean hostilities.

Such Reservists, for most part, originally were scheduled to be separated upon completion of 17 months active service.

The Navy said the reduction in service time has been made to implement Department of Defense Appropriation Act 1952 (Public Law 179, 82nd Congress.) The Act states that "No part of any appropriation contained in this act for pay and allowances of military personnel shall be expended for the pay and allowances accruing after 30 Nov. 1951, of any enlisted member of the inactive or volunteer Reserve who served on active duty for a period of 12 months or more in any branch of the Armed Forces during the period beginning 7 Dec. 1941, and ending 2 Sept., 1945, if such member shall have served on active duty for a period of 16 months or more after 26 June, 1950, unless such member shall have voluntarily consented to remain on active duty."

Naval Reservists affected by the new release policy are non-drill pay veterans who were placed on active duty during October 1950 or later. Such Reservists placed on active duty prior to October 1950 have been released from active duty, or are scheduled for separation upon completion of 16 months active service or earlier, under the original Navy release plan.

Veterans, according to the Navy release plan, are those individuals who have served honorably on active duty for a period of 12 months or more between 16 Sept. 1940, and 24 June, 1948, or for a period of 90 days between 7 Dec., 1941, and 2 Sept., 1945, in the Army, Air Force, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, Public Health Service, or the Armed Forces of any country allied with the United States in World War II prior to 2 Sept., 1945.

Letters To Congress

In the wake of a recent Senate Preparedness Subcommittee report which charged the Marine Corps with impairing "a fundamental right" of personnel to communicate with members of Congress, the Corps has issued new instructions on "Dealings with the Congress."

The directive, promulgated within a week of the Subcommittee report, states that "Any local directives, regardless of form, which restrict or may be construed as restricting Marine Corps personnel in communicating with their representatives, shall be rescinded." It also points out the Marines will not be discouraged from corresponding with members of Congress and that no "prior consultation with superiors" will be imposed upon them.

At the same time, the Marine Corps divulged recently revised Navy regulations, approved by the President in late September and scheduled for publication in the near future, which stipulate that Naval personnel cannot contact Congressional committees without the consent and knowledge of the Secretary of the Navy, although they may contact individual Members of Congress, without restriction.

The revised Navy Regulations articles, 1248 and 1249, read as follows:

"1248. Communications to the Congress.

"1. All petitions, remonstrances, memorials, and communications of any person or persons in the naval service, whether on the active or retired lists, addressed to the Congress, or to either house thereof, or to any committee thereof, on any subject of legislation relating to the Naval Establishment, whether pending, proposed, or suggested, shall be forwarded through, or as authorized by the Secretary of the Navy.

"2. No chief of a bureau, office, or division, or other subordinate of the Navy Department, and no person in the naval service shall, in his official capacity, apply to the Congress, or to either house thereof, or to any committee thereof, for legislation or for appropriations or for Congressional action of any kind except with the consent and knowledge of the Secretary of the Navy; nor shall any such person, in his official capacity respond to any request for information from the Congress, or from either house thereof, or from any committee of Congress, except through, or as authorized by, the Secretary of the Navy, except as provided in sections 102, 103 and 104 of the Revised Statutes (2 U.S.C. 192-194).

"1249. Dealings with Members of Congress.

"1. No person in the naval service shall be restricted or prevented from communicating directly or indirectly with individual Members of Congress concerning any subject provided such communication is not in violation of law or naval security regulations."

Army, Navy, Marines Cited

Secretary of the Navy Dan A. Kimball has announced the names of reinforcing units of the 1st Marine Division which are entitled to wear the Presidential Unit Citation, previously announced for the Inchon-Seoul operation.

The units which participated in the fighting between 15 Sept. and 11 Oct., 1950 are:

FLEET MARINE FORCE UNITS AND DETACHMENTS: Radio Relay Platoon, 1st Signal Operations Company; Battery C, 1st 4.5 Inch Rocket Battalion; 1st Amphibian Truck Company; 1st Amphibian Tractor Battalion (less Company "D"); 1st Combat Service Group, Service Command; 1st Fumigation and Bath Platoon; 1st Aerial Delivery Platoon; 7th Motor Transport Battalion Service Command; 1st Armored Amphibian Battalion; Detachment Marine Tactical Air Control Squadron-2, Team #1, First Provisional Historical Platoon; Marine Observation Squadron-6; Marine Aircraft Group-33, Reinforced, including Headquarters Squadron-33, Marine Service Squadron-33, Marine Ground Control Intercept Squadron-1, Marine Fighter Squadron-212, Marine Fighter Squadron-214, Marine Fighter Squadron-312, Marine Fighter Squadron-323, Marine Night Fighter Squadron-513, and Marine Night Fighter Squadron-542.

UNITED STATES NAVY UNITS: Naval Beach Group-1.

UNITED STATES ARMY UNITS: Detachment 205th Signal Repair Company; Detachment 4th Signal Battalion; 163rd Military Intelligence Service Detachment; Company "A," Reinforced, 56th Amphibian Tractor Battalion; 96th Field Artillery Battalion, 441st Counter-Intelligence Corps Detachment; 2nd Engineer Special Brigade; 73rd Engineer (C) Battalion; 50th Engineer Port Construction Company; 65th Ordnance Ammunition Company; 32nd Regimental Combat Team; Special Operations Company; 3rd Battalion, 187 Airborne Regimental Combat Team; and the 50th Antiaircraft Artillery Air Warning Battalion.

President Signs Bills

The signature of the President has enacted into law the following bills submitted to him in the closing days of the first session of the 82d Congress:

H.R. 1203. To authorize officers designated by the Secretary of the Air Force to take action on reports of survey and vouchers pertaining to Government property.

H.R. 3932. To provide vocational rehabilitation training for veterans with compensable service-connected disabilities who served on or after June 27, 1950.

H.R. 5102. To authorize the Secretary of the Navy to enlarge existing water-supply facilities for the San Diego, Calif. area in order to insure the existence of an adequate water supply for naval installations and defense production plants in such area.

S. 1994. To authorize the use of the incomplete submarine Uluu as a target for explosive tests.

H.R. 1227. To amend further the Act entitled "An Act to authorize the construction of experimental submarines" approved May 16, 1947, as amended.

H.R. 5054. The Defense Appropriation Act for fiscal 1952.

H.R. 4205. To provide retirement benefits for the Chief of the Dental Division of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery.

H.R. 4473. The Revenue Act of 1951.

H.R. 1764. To authorize the Secretaries of the Army and Air Force to settle, pay, adjust, and compromise certain claims for damages and for salvage, and towage and to execute releases, certifications, and reports with respect thereto.

S. 1864. To authorize payments by the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs on the purchase of automobiles or other conveyances by certain disabled veterans. (Passed over the veto of the President.)

H.R. 4386. Making appropriations for civil functions administered by the Department of the Army for fiscal 1952.

S. 2244. To amend certain housing legislation to grant preferences to veterans of the Korean conflict.

H.R. 5405. To amend the existing bonus law. (Refers especially to enlistees who enlisted for an indefinite period.)

H.R. 828. For the relief of Maj. Bruce B. Calkins.

H.R. 1181. To amend section 207 of the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946 so as to authorize payment of claims arising from correction of military or naval records.

H.R. 3548. To provide that payment to States and Territories for care given to certain disabled soldiers and sailors of the United States shall be effective from the date such care commenced.

H.R. 5062. To extend the authority of the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs to appoint and employ retired officers without affecting their retired status.

H.R. 5215. Supplemental appropriations for fiscal 1952.

H.R. 5650. Supplemental appropriations for fiscal 1952.

H.R. 4692. To authorize the appointment of Joseph F. Carroll as a permanent colonel in the Regular Air Force.

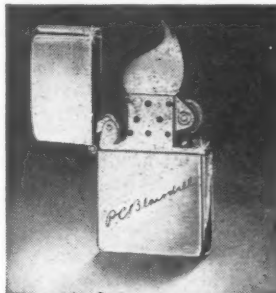

H.R. 3003. To authorize Rear Adm. Emory D. Stanley, USN, retired, to accept employment with the government of Peru.

Gen. Tunner AMC Deputy, New Directorates Formed

Maj. Gen. William H. Tunner, Deputy Commander, Military Air Transport Service, who successfully and successfully commanded the India-China "Hump" airlift during World War II, the Berlin Airlift in 1948 and 1949 and the airlift to Korea, on 1 December will become Deputy Commanding General of the Air Materiel Command at Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio.

He will succeed Maj. Gen. St. Clair Streett, who has been on sick leave in recent weeks and who will become Special Assistant to the Commanding General, AMC, Lt. Gen. Edwin W. Rawlings.

Two new AMC directorates have been established.

They are the Directorate of Command Support, to be headed by Brig. Gen. David H. Baker, and the Directorate of Personnel and Training under Brig. Gen. William J. Clinch.

The newly-created Directorate of Command Support will combine AMC's Air Installations Division, Base Administration Division and the Air Adjutant General's Office. In general, it will group—under one director—the responsibility for supervising the administrative and support activities of the eight Air Materiel Areas and the six Air Procurement Districts in AMC.

Establishment of a Directorate of Personnel and Training elevates the old AMC Personnel and Administration Department to directorate level and brings to four the total of AMC directorates. The others are Director of Procurement and Production, headed by Maj. Gen. Mark E. Bradley, Jr., and Director of Supply, Services and Maintenance Engineering, under Maj. Gen. George W. Mundy.

AF Reserve Resignations

The Air Force has dispatched the Continental Air Command a policy guidance letter for use in considering applications for resignation of certain Air Force Reserve officers not on active duty.

It was emphasized that each application must be given individual consideration. However, the following will be generally acceptable reasons for permitting resignation:

1. Undue hardship.
2. Overage in grade provided the current appointment has been in effect three years. Age limits are: Lieutenant, 36; Captain, 42; Major, 48; Lieutenant Colonel, 53; and Colonel, 55.
3. Delay of a year or more in reporting for service. This applies to Reserve officers in critical occupations, key personnel, elected officials of government, and Reservists whose withdrawal would affect the health, safety or welfare of the community.
4. Eight years in the Reserve including two years on active duty if the current appointment has been in effect three years.
5. Ten years in the Reserve without active duty if the current appointment has been in effect three years.

By permitting such resignations on an individual basis, it was explained, the Air Force expects to reduce the expense of administering unavailable personnel as well as increasing the mobilization efficiency and capability of the Reserve.

Except for hardship or physical disability, resignations will not be accepted from those officers who are critically needed according to current AF directives at the time of application.

Since the Korean emergency, all action has been suspended on unqualified resignations of inactive Reserve officers.

Honor for Gen. Putt

Maj. Gen. Donald L. Putt, USAF, acting Deputy Chief of Staff, Development, has received the Carnegie Institute of Technology Distinguished Service Achievement Award for outstanding service and accomplishment in the U. S. Air Force.

A 1928 Carnegie graduate in electrical engineering, General Putt received the award for his work in research and development, including the development of B-25, B-26, B-29, and B-36 aircraft.

Only other recipient of the Distinguished Service Achievement Award, instituted by the Carnegie Alumni Council last year, is Charles E. Wilson, President of General Motors.

General Putt will become Deputy Commanding General, Air Research and Development Command in the near future. ARDC Headquarters are at Baltimore, Md.

SAC to TAC Shift

Transfer from Strategic Air Command to Tactical Air Command of four fighter bomber wings and two airbases, was announced this week.

The transfer reflects the fact that deployment to Korea and Western Europe during the last year has cut down the number of units training under the Tactical Air Command. Additional fighter wings for participation in joint training with ground force troops will be provided by the transfer giving men of both services opportunity to increase their skill and develop their technique in working together in tactical air operations.

The units involved in the transfer—all former Air National Guard units—are:

The 131st and 146th Fighter Bomber Wings, stationed at George AFB, Victorville, Calif.; 132d Fighter Bomber Wing, Dow AFB, Bangor, Me.; and the 108th Fighter Bomber Wing presently at Turner AFB, Albany, Ga. The 108th will move shortly to Godman AFB, Ft. Knox, Ky.

The 31st Fighter Escort Wing of the Strategic Air Command will continue to be based at Turner AFB.

Tactical Air Command will assume jurisdiction over George and Dow Air Force Bases, formerly under SAC. The three units at these installations will remain.

Col. Manzo at Fairchild

Following two years duty at Strategic Air Command Headquarters, Offutt AFB, Nebr., Col. S. E. Manzo has reported to Fairchild AFB, Wash., to command the 11th Strategic Reconnaissance Wing.

Colonel Manzo had commanded the 92d Bomb Group at Fairchild AFB from June 1948 to October 1949. Col. Edward D. Edwards, who had been acting commander of the 11th, will be deputy commander. The former deputy commander, Col. Louis R. Black, has been assigned to temporary duty with the FEAF Bomber Command.

Form Air Photo Group

Formation of an Air Force Group of the Air Pictorial Service, with headquarters at the Lockheed Air Terminal, Burbank, Calif., has been announced.

The organization, designated the 4860th Photo Group, will occupy the facilities vacated by the 115th Bomb Squadron, California Air National Guard, which was ordered to Federal duty last April and subsequently transferred to Langley AFB, Va.

An advance cadre of the group is scheduled to move into the Burbank facility 1 Dec. Col. Cornelius B. Cosgrove, formerly Chief of Staff of the APS at USAF Headquarters, Washington, D. C., has been named commanding officer of the 4860th Photo Group.

Official activation of the group will occur on or about the first of the year. At that time, the Second Photographic Squadron, now operating from the Long Beach AFB, Calif., will move to Burbank to become a part of the new group.

The new photo group will have as its prime responsibility the photographic documentation of all USAF activities in the Western area of the United States. In addition, the group will conduct training operations and supervise the activities of several mobile photo units, which are principally combat photo teams.

AACS 13 Years Old

The Airways and Air Communications Service of the Military Air Transport Service, commanded by Brig. Gen. E. Blair Garland, USAF, was 13 years old on 15 Nov.

Founded at the insistence of the late General of the Force Henry H. Arnold in 1938 with a strength of three officers and 300 enlisted at 33 stations, AACS now has more than 21,000 officers and men at approximately 200 operating points around the globe.

AAC Headquarters are in Washington, D. C.

Medical Officers Graduate

The first class of Air Force medical officers to complete a course in Preventive Medicine in an Air Force sponsored curriculum at a civilian public health school have finished work at Tulane University Medical School, New Orleans, La. The three-month course of intensive studies on basic principles of preventive medicine, epidemiology, biostatistics, and sanitation constitutes nearly half the graduate work necessary for a Master's Degree in Public Health.

Among the graduating officers were a number who had recently completed their interne training under Air Force auspices in approved hospitals located throughout the United States. The balance of the class were assigned from duty stations to which they will return, with the exceptions of Lt. Col. Daniel W. Calvin who goes from Norton AFB, Calif., to the School of Aviation Medicine's Gunter Branch, at Montgomery, Ala., and 1st Lt. Ray E. Burns who goes from Sampson AFB, N. Y., to Parks AFB, Calif.

Graduating officers who recently completed interne training and were assigned to their first military medical duty are:

First Lieutenants John R. Archdeacon, Norton AFB, Calif.; David L. Chadwick, 4th Epidemiological Flight, Gunter Branch, School of Aviation Medicine; Archie M. Connolly, 18th Air Force, Donaldson AFB, S. C.; Donald P. Dobson, Biggs AFB, Tex.; Jerome Forber, Hq. Eastern Defense Force, Stewart AFB, N. Y.; Richard D. Flinucane, Forbes AFB, Kans.; George H. Harris, Hq. Central Defense Force, Kansas City, Mo.; Charles J. Hefele, Ramey AFB, Puerto Rico; James R. Holsinger, Hqs. 9th Air Force, Pope AFB, N. C.; Ray Lewis, Lowry AFB, Colo.; Thomas G. McWilliams, Westover AFB, Mass.; Mark R. Neary, Hq. Western Defense Force, Hamilton AFB, Calif.; Don N. Orelup, Amarillo AFB, Tex.; Richard L. Schwartz, Hq. Tactical Air Command, Langley AFB, Va.; Amos V. Smith, Carswell AFB, Tex.; Elmer E. Specht, Great Falls AFB, Mont.; Luke M. Tajima, Fairchild AFB, Wash.; John C. Wells, Jr., Randolph AFB, and Edward J. Zayac, Chanute AFB, Ill.

Officers previously on duty and returning to the same Air Force Base are:

Lt. Col. Furman L. Foster, MacDill AFB, Fla.; Captains Donald B. Dose, Walker AFB, N. M.; Hendley A. McDonald, Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio; Carl Y. Malmquist, Great Falls AFB, Mont.; Leroy C. Pierce, Carswell AFB, Tex.; David G. Pletz, Baer Field, Ind.; William L. Reid, Lackland AFB, Tex.; Marvin H. Schultz, Rapid City AFB, S. D.; Francis M. Sellers, Tinker AFB, Okla.; Karl E. Walter, Offutt AFB, Nebr.; and First Lieutenants Choyce W. Dempsey, Travis AFB, Calif.; Sumner I. Goldstein, Mitchell AFB, N. Y.; George W. Markus, Godman AFB, Ky.; David Ruml, Robins AFB, Ga.; Richard Schermeyer, Turner AFB, Ga.; Ransan L. Smith, Hill AFB, Utah; Hugh J. Stennis, Ellington AFB, Tex., and Richard L. Whelton, Sampson AFB, N. Y.

Col. "Killer" Kane C.O.

Col. John R. (Killer) Kane, who won the Congressional Medal of Honor as a bomber commander in World War II, has been named commander of the first wing of the Air Force's new Air Resupply and Communications Service.

He succeeds Col. W. O. Eareckson who has been assigned to Washington for duty at headquarters of the Military Air Transport Service, under which ARC Service was organized in February 1951.

Colonel Eareckson organized and conducted the 580th ARC Wg. through its preliminary training. It was the first wing to be activated at the reopened air base at Mt. Home, Idaho. A second wing, the 581st, has since been activated and is now in training at the Idaho base.

The wings have a wartime mission of preparing and disseminating psychological warfare material and the aerial supply of military units. In peacetime, the wings serve to augment the supply and communications capability of the theatre to which assigned.

Col. Murphy Base Exec.

Col. John R. Murphy, veteran of 110 Korean missions, has arrived to take over the Executive Officer's duties at Luke AFB, Ariz.

Col. Murphy has more than 2750 hours flying time, 549 of them combat hours. He commanded the first group to receive the Presidential Unit Citation in Korea, the 49th Fighter Group.

ment party team instead of being regarded as within the sole province of the chaplains.

As a reception and training center for WAF, the base continues to give initial training to all women enlistees, to all women officer candidates and to all who receive direct commissions in the current WAF procurement program. The newest expansion of the Lackland mission has been the establishment of an Officer Training School which provides an eight week indoctrination not only for all directly commissioned WAF but for male junior officers ordered to duty from civilian life after winning direct commissions.

The USAF Officer Candidate School, moved to Lackland from Miami, Fla., following close of World War II hostilities, has undergone a steady expansion since the Korean outbreak. It is Lackland's most important single establishment. With an upper and lower class system, classes of six months duration are arranged so that graduations now occur at three month intervals.

There have been a corresponding refinement and evolution of the OCS curricula, with emphasis on new educational techniques and the advancing range of military subjects.

On the admission side, the Air Force has taken recent steps to restrict civilian applicants and to encourage both male and female applicants from within the Armed Forces.

Reserve Officer Course

Another major indoctrination role at Lackland is assumed by operation of an orientation course for reserve officers beginning their first extended active duty tours. This course provides a scientific evaluation of aptitudes along with brief orientation classes and is geared to process the steps of classification and assignment within a space of two to three weeks in most cases. More than a thousand officers have already received their introduction to Air Force life by completing this course.

For more than a year Lackland has also maintained an Air Force General Instructors School for the training of both male and female academic, military, and specialist non-commissioned officers. Graduates of the course immediately assume key instructor posts in the broad basic indoctrination program.

The base is officially home of the 3700th Air Force Indoctrination Wing, which includes four basic military training groups and the single WAF military training group at Lackland, and has charge of another male basic training group situated presently at Sheppard Air Force base, Wichita Falls, Texas.

Human Resources Research

Lackland also houses the headquarters of the Human Resources Research Center, which occupies status of a tenant organization. The Research Center is in process of a long range expansion program which already has established a network of detachments and subsidiary units at bases throughout the country. Besides the headquarters, the research establishment at Lackland contains a personnel research division and a perceptual and motor skills laboratory. Much of the investigatory study which has led to development of the advanced type aptitude and personality tests in growing use throughout the service has taken place at the Lackland headquarters location.

Recent additions to the base area have brought acreage now covered by Lackland to nearly 3,000, from about 2,200 acres formerly occupied. An immense construction program, involving contracts totaling approximately $70,000,000, will add new areas and facilities for the WAF and OSC activities besides vastly improving airmen and family housing. Moving forward with the rest of the Air Force, Lackland reaffirms its claim to title as the Air Force's largest, most populous installation.

Heidelberg Chaplain

Chaplain (Capt.) Harold T. Grabau, former chaplain of the 18th Engr. Const. Bn., Giessen, Germany, has been assigned to Heidelberg Military Post as post Protestant chaplain.

Flights to "Fantastic Heights" Foretold

Within another five to 10 years the Air Force will be flying to "fantastic heights," Maj. Gen. Harry G. Armstrong, USAF, Surgeon General, told a gathering of the nation's top scientists in San Antonio, Tex., last week. A four-day Symposium on the Physics and Medicine of the Upper Atmosphere was jointly sponsored by the Air Force School of Aviation Medicine at Randolph Field, Tex., and the Lovelace Foundation for Medical Education and Research, of Albuquerque, N. Mex.

Ships cannot be designed to carry men into the far reaches of the upper air, General Armstrong warned, until the engineers know what sort of protection will be needed for their crews, and how the borders of space will affect them. But the Surgeon General was confident that these questions will be answered within the decade.

"We don't know all the hazards of flight at such very high altitudes," said General Armstrong. "We may run into some that we can't overcome. But I'm not inclined to think Americans will admit that anything is unsolvable."

The meeting in the roof garden on the Plaza Hotel brought together 35 key figures in the fields of aircraft engineering, physics, radiobiology, and aviation medicine. Research centers in all three branches of the Armed Forces were represented, along with a dozen universities and industrial laboratories. Some 300 military and civilian guests from all over the country attended the sessions.

They discussed matters ranging from the temperature extremes encountered in the so-called Aeropause—that region, 12 miles and more above the earth, where the useful atmosphere begins to vanish—to the possible effects of the various kinds of radiation found there. Problems of gravitation and weight, meteors, and the composition of the remote upper air were considered. In a series of round-table talks, the scientists exchanged information on rocket design and behavior, research instruments, and emergency escape procedures.

Sonic-Space Pilots

Among the aviation notables who sat in on the conference were Maj. Charles Yeager, the Air Force test pilot who first broke through the sonic barrier with the XS-1 in October 1947, and William B. Bridgeman, former Navy bomber pilot, who recently shattered all altitude and speed records with the new Douglas Skyrocket. The first human being to fly a rocket ship in the Aeropause, Bridgeman took his slim, white craft above 72,000 feet—fourteen miles toward space—and brought it down at twice the speed of sound.

Brig. Gen. Otis O. Benson, jr., MC, USAF, Commandant of the School of Aviation Medicine, welcomed the visiting scientists and the rank-studded audience at the conference. The Symposium's objectives were explained by Dr. Clayton S. White, director of research for the Lovelace Foundation. Alfred M. Mayo, designer of the Skyrocket, introduced the basic problems of the meeting from the engineer's point of view.

At a banquet for participants in the Symposium the guests of honor were General Carl Spaatz, first chief of Staff of the Air Force, and Lt. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, former chief of air staff, who since his retirement in 1947 has been Vice President of the Hughes Aircraft Company.

General Eaker made a forceful address on "National Security in Our Time."

The eminent speakers heard at the Symposium included: Dr. Hermann J. Muller, Nobel prize-winning geneticist, who teaches zoology at the University of Indiana; Dr. Joseph Kaplan, professor of physics at U.C.L.A.; Capt. Ashton Graybiel, director of research for the Naval School of Aviation Medicine; Col. Paul A. Campbell, director of research for the Air Force School of Aviation Medicine; Dr. James P. Henry of the Wright Air Development Center; Dr. Edward O. Hulburt, director of research for the Naval Research Laboratory; and Dr. Adolph T. Krebs of the Army Medical Research Laboratory.

Others were: Dr. Edward P. Ney, professor of physics at the University of Minnesota; Dr. Marcel Nicolet of the Royal Meteorological Institute of Belgium; Dr. Victor Regener, professor of physics at the University of New Mexico; Dr. William W. Kellogg of the RAND Corporation; Dr. Heinz Specht of the National Institute of Health; Dr. Hubert Strughold, professor of aviation medicine at the Air Force School of Aviation Medicine; Col. John M. Talbot of the Air Research and Development Command; Dr. James A. Van Allen, professor of physics at Iowa State University; and Dr. Fred L. Whipple, chairman of the department of astronomy at Harvard University.

Among the distinguished guests was Dr. Werner von Braun, former German rocket expert who now serves as an advisor on rocket design for the U. S. Armed Forces.

The various papers and discussions at the meeting will be collected in a book to be edited by General Benson and Dr. White. It will be published in a few months by the University of New Mexico Press.

New AF Regulations

Short Story Contest—AFL 212-3, 2 Nov., announces an AF Short Story Contest, with prize winners to receive $200, $125 and $75. Winning stories and a selection of the best stories will be offered for publication to nationally known magazines at the usual rates.

Incentive Pay—AFL 35-21, 2 Nov., pertains to flight pay status as described in the 1952 Appropriations Act. The AF states that "orders issued by competent authority which direct officers and airmen to participate in regular and frequent aerial flights, constitute specific orders assigning an individual to actual duties requiring participation in operational or training flights, within the meaning of Section 633 of the Department of Defense Appropriation Act of 1952."

Petroleum Products—AFR 67-53, 2 Nov., relates to issue, sale or purchase of petroleum products.

General Messages—AFR 100-42, 6 Nov., authorizes employment of general messages and prescribed policies and procedures governing their use.

Supply and Maintenance—AFR 65-43, 1 Nov., concerns inventory and status report of vehicles, AF Form 43.

Activate Two Bases

The Air Force will activate two additional air bases in the near future, one at Kinross, Mich., and one at Victoria, Tex.

Kinross Air Force Auxiliary Field will be activated on 1 Dec. It has been on inactive status under the control of the U. S. Air Materiel Command at Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio. It was used by the Air Technical Service Command during World War II as a technical school and placed on a standby status shortly after the war.

Plans are to use this northern Michigan base for a fighter unit under the jurisdiction of the Air Defense Command. The projected base population for this use will total about 700 military and 100 civilian personnel.

Foster Field, located about six miles northeast of Victoria, is now privately owned. During World War II it was used for training purposes. At that time, advanced single-engine and specialized single-engine courses were given by the Army Flying School at Victoria.

After lease arrangements are completed, Air Training Command will conduct advance single-engine, jet training activities at the Foster Field. About 2,300 Air Force personnel and 600 civilian employees will make up the permanent training group.

Test B-47 at Edwards

A group of Air Force officers arrived recently at Edwards AFB, Calif., to conduct evaluation tests on the Boeing B-47 jet bomber.

Included in the test group are Brig. Gen. Albert Boyd, USAF, Lt. Col. Guy Townsend, Lt. Col. Frank Everest, Maj. Robert Mortland, Maj. Jackie Ridley, Maj. Robert Yeager and Capt. Joseph Wolfe.

AF Medical Officer Elected

Lt. Col. John E. Boysen, USAF (MC) has become the only military member of the American Academy of Occupational Medicine. The Air Force physician was elected to fellowship in the Academy by the board of directors.

Colonel Boysen is presently Deputy Air Surgeon for the Air Materiel Command located at Wright-Patterson AFB, Dayton, Ohio.

$2 Million Runway

Built at a cost of more than $2 million and requiring 200,000 tons of asphalt, a 10,500-foot runway has put in operation at Fairchild AFB, Wash. First plane to use the mammoth strip was a B-36, piloted by Capt. George H. Seidlein. Aboard the plane also was Col. Kenneth B. Hobson, 92d Bombardment Wing commander.

"We have suffered enough in two World Wars, and in Korea, to know that we Americans have been living not on borrowed time, but on dearly purchased time bought for us by our men who have died for us and for what is dear to us."—SECRETARY OF DEFENSE ROBERT A. LOVETT, ARMISTICE DAY, 1951.

The Time of Atomic Plenty. "We are moving into a time of relative atomic plenty—atomic plenty which will make atomic weapons available for the battlefield." Secretary of the Air Force Finletter pointed this out last week in calling attention to the fact that it is very important to make sure that our air plans keep up with the increased number and changed types of weapons that will have to be carried. The Air Secretary felt that we are doing this as well as can be done in light of the long "lead time" necessary in the development and production of new aircraft.

The same is true of the other Armed Forces. As atomic weapons are developed and their quantities increase, the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps, as well as the Air Force, are endeavoring to learn their lessons quickly and to reflect them in new tactics and modifications of older weapons and equipment. The Army's Exercise Desert Rock under the III Corps at the Atomic Energy Commission's Nevada test site will afford vast material for study, analysis and action. The Navy and Marines also observed these exercises, and at the same time, in their current amphibious exercises, have utilized past reports on A-bomb explosions to work out amphibious techniques designed to succeed even in the face of atomic counter-attack. Admiral Fechteler, Chief of Naval Operations, also asserts that our carriers are capable of delivering an atomic attack.

Mr. Ramsey Potts, former National Security Resources Board industrial dispersion expert and a military analyst for the Strategic Bombing Survey, predicted this week that by 1955 the Russians will have entered a period of relative atomic plenty. Past experience with forecasts as to Russian capabilities should lead us to shorten this estimate. But regardless of Russian progress we must be ever alert to take advantage of atomic progress while at the same time not neglecting the constant maintenance of an efficient force in being, trained and equipped to fight today with the weapons available today. It is axiomatic that you cannot win today's battles with tomorrow's weapons.

Rifles for NATO. The Decision of Prime Minister Churchill to hold up for the time being the adoption by the British of its new .280-caliber rifle is of momentous importance to the efficiency of the NATO forces now being developed under the leadership of General of the Army Eisenhower.

This is not to imply that the English weapon is not as efficient and accurate as its proponents claim. However, the important point is that its adoption would slow up the rearmament program and vastly complicate the ammunition supply and the interchangeability of weapons. The United States small arms program is based on the M1 .30-caliber (Garand), which although a modern development has been in combat use long enough to have proved its capabilities. Moreover, it was adopted after competition with the smaller bore rifles similar to the new British development. Our arms factories are in a position to produce the M1 in quantities and quickly. Another point is the fact that the M1 is more than a single weapon, it is the basis of a family of weapons, some in use and others in the development stages. These include the rifle grenade launcher, the sniperscope, the carbine, and modifications permitting its efficient use under special conditions of weather and terrain. Obviously, the earlier British suggestion that we switch to their new smaller caliber weapon would be impracticable.

Mr. Churchill was quick to see these points and has now informed the House of Commons that "It would not be possible to rearm the British forces with the .280 rifle on the scale of the millions required for a considerable number of years. A few weeks can therefore safely be allowed for examination of this question at the present time." The Prime Minister said he will give a full statement of his views before the Christmas recess of the House of Commons begins on 7 Dec. It seems apparent that he will put an end to this disagreement between the Allies and present a plan for closer integration of weapons rather than a major divergence such as would have been created by the proposed adoption of the .280 rifle.

The Chamber of Commerce and National Defense. Mr. Dechard Anderson Hulcy, public utility executive of Dallas, Tex., and President of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, caused some little consternation recently when he accused the military services of spending tax money just to "keep up with the Joneses." "The

Endorses Service Co-ops

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

A note to encourage the Major who several weeks ago, in this column, proposed military personnel co-operatives to beat the rising cost of living, especially as reflected in increased commissary prices.

It seems safe to assume that there are, among the personnel of any military installation, a group who are, by their interest and/or knowledge of the problems involved, qualified to meet, study the problem and its local implications, and confer with similar groups from other installations with a view to inter-station cooperative action.

Reserve Promotion

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

It is with interest that I noticed your report on the "Reserve Promotion Law" in the 6 Oct. issue of THE JOURNAL.

The tentative proposal to "eliminate from Active various branches of the Armed Services," President Hulcy told the Seattle chamber, "are competing with each other for special handouts from the public purse. If the Navy gets a new flat top, why then the Air Force simply must have 'X' number of new squadrons."

It is interesting to note that no official action has been taken by the national Chamber of Commerce nor any official committee recommendations made upon which such loose and derogatory statements could have been based. As a matter of fact, the Chamber's official attitude as embodied in its current policy declarations on National Defense is a strong and sound one based on detailed studies by its able committee on National Defense, which supplements the work of its staff by frequent consultations with and briefing by representatives of the Departments. It urges the "adoption and implementation of a strong, well-balanced defense program," favors economic mobilization, stockpiling, Selective Service, and many other programs vital to security. The Chamber last Spring endorsed a report of its Committee strongly favoring a program of Universal Military Training along almost the exact lines now recommended by the UMT Commission. The Chamber has a Committee studying governmental expenditures, including those of the military, but it has issued no report nor recommended any policy along military lines.

The conclusion must be reached that Mr. Hulcy was speaking solely for himself and not as the voice of the national Chamber of Commerce.

IN THE JOURNAL

10 Years Ago

The War Department General Staff has begun a comprehensive study of the organization and equipment of the Army. It is quite likely that recommendations will be made for changes in the triangular division and the reorganization of many of the smaller units.

50 Years Ago

The utmost care is to be taken during the next year to give younger Naval officers instruction in all the duties pertaining to the engine room. It is felt at the Department that it may be necessary to re-establish the Engineer Corps of the Navy.

85 Years Ago

"The dethronement of Maximilian in Mexico was even a greater necessity to our American policy than the expulsion of the troops of Marshal Bazaine. Never again, probably, will imperialism have so good a chance of success in Mexico.

Reserve status those colonels with 30 years' service of 5 years in-grade, whichever is later" is certainly a step in the right direction. My personal feeling, however, is that the phrase "whichever is later" allows too much leeway as this would allow a possible maximum Reserve Service of 34-35 years.

As a Reserve colonel myself, I question the value of a 50-year-old Reserve colonel to the Armed Forces. It would be my opinion that not only should retirement from the Active Reserve be made on the basis of time-in-grade but also on a maximum age stipulation.

Any Reserve Officer by the time he is 50 years of age, who would be of value to the Armed Forces, has reached such a position in his civilian occupation where it is difficult to find the time to maintain an active interest in Reserve Military Affairs. It is for this reason that I feel that the retirement feature of the Reserve Promotion Law should be more severe and that there should be automatic retirement at the 50-55 age level.

LITTLE progress was made this week in Korean armistice negotiations. There is practical agreement of opposing sides as to the location of the buffer zone between the armies, but wide variance on the time a cease-fire order should become effective. The Communists apparently want an immediate cessation of hostilities on land, on sea and in the air, while other truce terms are under discussion, and even before measures have been taken to insure compliance with armistice arrangements. The United Nations delegation fears that the Reds, protected by a cease-fire agreement, would take advantage of this immunity from attack to rebuild and reinforce their troops, provide for reserve supplies and restore lines of communications to prepare for a possible new Communist offensive, while they stalled negotiations on remaining truce terms.

The Allied conference team insists that the armistice go into effect only after all terms have been formally agreed upon, including not only the dividing line between opposing forces, but also provisions for enforcing the truce terms, for inspection of troop positions and rear areas, and for exchange of prisoners. The Allies apparently no longer demand that Kaesong be placed on the United Nations side of the truce zone, in return for comparable territory on the eastern front. They agree that the tentative line be more or less along the present battle front, but contend that it should be sufficiently flexible to allow for changes in the military situation between now and the time of the formal signing of the armistice. There were indications late this week that the Reds would accept this contention.

► VICE ADMIRAL C. TURNER JOY, USN, senior United Nations delegate to the truce conference, this week issued a statement declaring that the Allies were trying to negotiate a "full-fledged military armistice based on military realities." He outlined as specific goals, (1) establishment of a demilitarized zone, reflecting the military situation existing on the day armistice agreements are signed; (2) completely adequate security of United Nations combat forces and rear areas during the suspension of hostilities, with defensible main positions, and room for outposts to insure early warning of attack; (3) concrete agreements to prevent buildup of military forces beyond the level existing at the time the armistice becomes effective; and (4) quick and satisfactory arrangements for the recovery of prisoners in the hands of the enemy.

The admiral said the enemy wants a finalized zone determined now, with all the advantages of a de facto cease-fire, so that armistice negotiations may be prolonged without cost to the Reds. He felt that the Communists want immediate relief from Allied "inexorable military pressure," which, from the point of view of the United Nations, provides the incentive for the enemy to arrive quickly at agreement on the remaining items on the agenda.

In Japan this week 3,000 Communist-inspired students of the University of Kyoto participated in an unprecedented demonstration of disrespect for Emperor Hirohito. When the emperor arrived at the college his car was surrounded by noisy demonstrators singing the Communist hymn, "The Internationale." They had previously denounced the proposed rearmament of Japan. Two hundred police, hastily summoned to the campus, dispersed the milling students. This demonstration against the person of the emperor, still regarded as sacred by many Japanese, greatly shocked the people and inflamed anti-Communist sentiment throughout the country.

► FRENCH AND NATIVE FORCES in Indo-China this week made sweeping gains against Communist-led guerrilla troops, recovering more than 400 square miles of territory and 60 to 80 villages in a rich rice-growing area. The advance was led by French paratroopers, who dropped near the village of Choben, 30 miles southwest of Hanoi, quickly capturing that town. Native troops pushed forward waist-deep in water and mud of rice fields. They were supported by French planes dropping napalm, and, where possible, by tanks.

The State Department reluctantly admitted this week that it had been unable to find a mutually satisfactory basis for reopening negotiations between Great Britain and Iran with a view to settling the controversy which arose when Iran seized the rich British-owned oil properties in that country. Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadeq of Iran, who has been in the United States awaiting developments in the dispute, plans to start on his return journey home next week, with a stop in Egypt, which is also engaged in a violent controversy with Great Britain. The Iranian premier's visit to the United States was not entirely fruitless, for while here he received an emergency credit of $8.75 million from the International Monetary Fund to bolster the tottering economy of his country. This credit will provide a brief breathing spell for Iran, which is seriously threatened with financial disaster because of the loss of British oil revenues. It is reported that the prime minister sought unsuccessfully to obtain a loan of $125 million from the United States.

In rapid succession the Russians were dealt four defeats in the General Assembly of the United Nations in Paris this week. By an overwhelming majority the Assembly rejected the Russian proposal for admitting Red China to the United Nations, and by equally impressive votes agreed to place on the agenda for consideration the complaints of Nationalist China and Yugoslavia of Russian aid to Communist aggression in China and on the Yugoslav border, and the proposal of western powers for an investigation into the prospects for holding a free election throughout Germany, including the Russian zone, for the unification of that country. In the course of the debate Secretary of State Dean Acheson made a blistering attack on the Soviet project to admit China to membership in the United Nations, declaring that the international conduct of the Chinese Communist regime is "so low that it would take considerable improvement to raise it to the level of barbarism."

Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Great Britain will come to Washington soon after the first of the year to confer with President Truman on international problems of mutual interest. Foreign Minister Anthony Eden and other British officials will accompany Mr. Churchill. The conference is expected to cover a wide range of subjects, including the economic troubles of Great Britain, development of atomic weapons, and relations with the Soviet Union. While here Mr. Churchill will probably address a joint session of Congress.

► Colonel Boyd Retires—Col. Leonard R. Boyd, who has been Senior Army Instructor of the California National Guard for more than five years, will retire on 30 Nov. in the grade of brigadier general. During World War II, he was Chief of Staff, Hawaiian Department, Assistant Division Commander and Division Commander of the 93d Infantry Division.

Colonel Boyd, who will reside at 1849 Bidwell Way, Sacramento, Calif., will be succeeded by Col. Albert E. Billing, formerly Senior Army Instructor for the New York National Guard, who recently returned from Ecuador where he was Chief of the Military Mission to that country.

SERVICE NEWS AND GOSSIP

► Foreign Military Notes—Canada's Vice Adm. T. W. Grant, Chief of the Naval Staff since September 1947, will terminate a 37-year career in the RCN on 1 Dec. and will be succeeded by Rear Adm. E. Rollo Mainguy, who has been Flag Officer Atlantic Coast since October 1948. Admiral Mainguy will be given three-star rank in his new post. During Admiral Grant's service, the RCN doubled its personnel from 6,814 to more than 12,000 and its ships were more than tripled from the mere eight vessels in active service in 1947. Three destroyers are in Korean waters and two others are required for relief. Contracts have been awarded for 39 new ships.

Saudia Arabia's Prince Misha'al ibn Abdul Aziz al Saud, Minister of Defense, arrived in the United States this week for a visit to defense installations.

For the first time, military personnel of member nations of the Mutual Defense Assistance Program are engaged in on-the-job training with United States Air Force communications specialists. Officers and enlisted men from the air forces of Belgium and the Netherlands are working side by side with airmen from the 1800th Airways and Air Communications Service (AACS) at various Air Force bases.

A second Australian infantry battalion will be sent to Korea early in 1952 to join the Third Battalion of the Royal Australian Regiment. The additional infantry battalion will be a significant reinforcement of the present total of about 5,500 Australians serving in Korea in the three Services.

► Big Russian Sub Force—The Russian Navy is believed to have a potential force of 500 undersea vessels, according to the new edition of Brassey's Annual, an unofficial British publication which contains statistics on the world's Naval and military forces.

The publication says the Russians now have 380 submarines in service and at least 120 under construction.

It was also pointed out that the USSR has almost three million men in its military program who are guided by "an iron discipline enjoined by Stalin himself." Brassey's stated that Russia could mobilize 300 divisions in two months' time if war should break out. "Discipline" in the Russian Army "amounts to the religious observance of every minutest order or regulation," the book states, and "Its chiefs are men of proven ability."

The Russian air force, according to the publication, has "very large numbers" of high-quality jet fighters, but has only one heavy bomber, a copy of the US B-29.

► Lieutenant Elected Vice-Mayor—Despite the fact that he is on active duty at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., Lt. Henry J. Nunlist recently was re-elected Vice-Mayor of St. Bernard, Ohio, a Cincinnati suburb with a population of about 8,000. An acting Vice-Mayor will fill the post in the lieutenant's absence. The civic post is a part-time responsibility. Prior to his recall to active duty, Lieutenant Nunlist was traffic manager for Amsco Solvents and Chemicals Company.

► 1st MAW Commended—The First Marine Aircraft Wing was recently commended in a letter from Maj. Gen. C. B. Ferenbaugh, commander of the Army's Seventh Infantry Division, to Maj. Gen. Christian F. Schilt, commander of the MAW. General Ferenbaugh praised the Marine flyers for "the magnificent support" they afforded his division. He particularly cited four pilots of VMF 311 (Capt. J. D. Lindley, Capt. M. L. Beaman, 2d Lt. L. G. Linmen, and T/Sgt. L. A. Watts) who, according to the General, "napalmed, strafed and rocketed strongly fortified positions with deadly accuracy. Despite intense enemy automatic weapons fire, each made repeated passes to insure complete neutralization of their targets."

He said, "It is flights such as this that have enabled the United Nations Forces to so effectively resist and frustrate the enemy in its supreme effort to mass its forces and build up its fortifications and supply dumps."

► Overseas Duty For Social Work Officers—Maj. Gen. George E. Armstrong, Army Surgeon General, has announced that medical social work officers will receive overseas assignments soon. They are already serving in the Army's social service program in hospitals throughout the United States. This expansion will greatly increase the number of military social workers needed by the Army Medical Service. General Armstrong said that 134 officers, most of them women, have been placed on duty since the social work program was inaugurated 1 July.

► Chaplain Named Professor—The acceptance of a professorship at Concordia Theological Seminary, St. Louis, Missouri, by Chaplain (Col.) Arthur C. Piepkorn is announced by Chaplain (Maj. Gen.) Roy H. Parker, Chief of Army Chaplains. Chaplain Piepkorn's resignation from the military service became effective this week.

"The recall of a chaplain by his own denomination to such an important position as professor" said Chaplain Parker, "is an indication of the excellent relationship existing between the churches and the Chaplaincy. In his new position at the largest theological seminary of the Lutheran Church, Chaplain Piepkorn will be able to make significant contributions both to the church and those who will be future chaplains."

► Would Honor General Drum—Senator Herbert Lehman (D-N. Y.) and Governor Thomas E. Dewey have urged that the Pine Camp military reservation be renamed in honor of the late Lt. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, USA-Ret. The matter is now under study at the Pentagon.

► Princess is "Queen of Mortars"—The Heavy Mortar Company of the 5th Regimental Combat Team with the 24th Infantry Division in Korea has a Queen—only in reality she is just a Princess.

The Mortarmen wanted an honorary Queen of real stature. No movie stars or radio and television entertainers for them. What to do?

The answer finally came, after much deliberation. Write to Princess Margaret Rose of England. In a letter to the Princess, Cpl. Joe Karam asked her to please be the Queen of the Mortar Company. A response signed by Victorie Leings, Lady-in-Waiting to the Princess, recently reached Korea. It said in part: "Her Royal Highness is touched by your kind thoughts of her, and bids me to send you all her good wishes."

Princess Rose now is the Queen of Mortars.

Ships of the Fleet—The fast transport USS Weiss and the patrol vessel PCEC 886, have arrived at Pearl Harbor following completion of tours of duty in the Far East. Both ships had been in Korean waters since last March.

The Pollux, a general stores issue ship, has arrived in San Francisco after more than a year in the Korean combat zone. She was congratulated by Admiral Arthur W. Radford, CinCPac, for her "splendid performance of duty in Far East."

Medical Service Corps—Lt. Col. Francis C. Nelson, chief of the Technical Information Office in the Office of the Army Surgeon General, was an observer at the atomic bomb tests conducted 5 Nov. at Frenchmen's Flat, Nev., under the auspices of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Veteran Polar Flier to Sunnier Clime—M/Sgt. James K. Boswood of the Air Force, who flew 58 missions over the North Pole with the 58th Strategic Reconnaissance Squadron of the Military Air Transport Service, has been reassigned to warmer duty. His new orders are to the 55th Weather Reconnaissance Squadron at McClellan AFB, Calif.

Glove Order Cancelled—The Air Force has cancelled an order for 1,500,000 pairs of dress gloves. The action was made known by Secretary of the Air Force Thomas K. Finletter after Senator Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) of the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee had requested an explanation of the need for this purchase.

Secretary Finletter said the requirement for a dress glove for personnel performing escort, military police and similar duties is met by the issue of the inexpensive Army-type white cotton glove as organizational equipment.

Matsman Honored—For outstanding service as traffic officer on the Berlin Airlift, Lt. Col. George Hewitt, acting deputy chief, traffic, Military Air Transport Service, has received the Medal for Humane Action. The award was presented by Maj. Gen. William H. Turner, USAF, Combined Airlift Task Force Commander during the Berlin Blockade before a representative group of Airlift staff officers now assigned to MATS at Andrews AFB, Md.

Colonel Hewitt, veteran of the famed CBI "Hump" operation in World War II, was in charge of all Korean traffic operations early in the Korean airlift for the Far East Air Force Combat Cargo Command. General Tunner was in command of all three of these history-making airlifts.

Military Police Association—The recently organized Military Police Association (for all services) with temporary headquarters at the Provost Marshal General Center, Camp Gordon, Ga., has just announced the enrollment of its 1,000th member. Lt. Col. Leonard A. Olson, Provost Marshal, 28th Infantry Division, has been mailed a letter of congratulations by the MPA president, Col. Francis E. Howard. Upon receipt of Colonel Olson's application for membership, it was revealed that he was the 1,000th person to join.

Quartermaster Corps—Col. James M. Illig transferred 1 Nov. from the Office of The Quartermaster General to Office Assistant Chief of Staff G-4. Lt. Col. Truman E. Deyo, recently returned from Ft. Richardson, Alaska, was assigned to Office Chief Army Field Forces, Ft. Monroe, Va. on 9 Nov.

Marine Award Questioned—The father of a Marine lieutenant killed in Korea wrote to President Truman to question the posthumous award of a Navy Cross to his son. Captain Eugene R. Guild, USA-Ret., suggested that "political discrimination" might have prevented his son, 2d Lt. John N. Guild from receiving the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Mr. Guild said another Marine officer, Lt. Henry A. Commiskey, who fought alongside Lieutenant Guild, had been awarded the Medal of Honor, and he wondered if perhaps his political views had prevented his son from receiving a similar award.

Both the Secretary of the Navy and the President's press secretary, Joseph Short, denied that Mr. Guild's political views had anything to do with the award of a lesser medal to his son.

The Navy pointed out that both officers had been recommended for the Navy Cross originally and that Lieutenant Commiskey's recommendation had been raised to a Medal of Honor by Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, Commander of Naval Forces in the Far East. Secretary Kimball said "at no point in the chain of command was Guild ever recommended for the Medal of Honor."

Mr. Short said, "The President holds the Medal of Honor to be so sacred that he would not tolerate anyone tampering with the procedures that are set up for giving this medal." He related that the President has said many times that he would rather have the Medal of Honor than be President. "He meant what he said," Mr. Short stated. He explained that the President has nothing to do with the award of other combat medals, such as the Navy Cross, and he suggested that Mr. Guild's letter stemmed from the understandable "distress of a grief-stricken father."

Both officers were platoon leaders in Company C, First Battalion, First Regiment, First Marine Division, and were recommended for medals for their action during the attack and capture of a hill following the Inchon invasion. The citation for Lieutenant Commiskey reveals that he personally killed seven of the enemy during the action. Lieutenant Guild, who was fatally wounded during the same attack, personally destroyed two of the enemy.

Mr. Guild said this week that he was satisfied with the explanation offered by the Presidential press secretary and Navy officials.

Transportation Corps—Col. Ray K. Bannister, formerly liaison officer of the Transportation Corps to the Comptroller of the Army for the management audit of the TC, has been designated to coordinate the Chief of Transportation's responsibilities on land transportation matters in overseas areas. By memo of the Acting Secretary of the Army, the Chief of Transportation was designated as the agent to carry out the responsibilities assigned to the Department of the Army for land transportation in overseas areas.

Col. William D. Collar has been added to the TC Comptroller's staff to take over Colonel Bannister's former duties.

Double Jewish Chaplains—The National Jewish Welfare Board reports that the number of Jewish chaplains on active duty must be doubled to meet requirements. During 1952, the number of Jewish chaplains will reach 147, compared with 70 currently in service.

Tomorrow Is Today—A letter written on 31 Oct. by a sailor aboard the Navy carrier Essex, off Korea, was delivered to his wife in San Francisco on the 30th, the day before it was written.

In explaining the unique stunt, the Navy said it was made possible by a radio telephoto machine and the time difference over the International Date Line. Actually, Chief Radioman James T. Bartleson transmitted the letter to his wife, Ethel, a former Wave, and she read it 20 minutes later. She works in the Radio San Francisco office.

The Navy said it is not planning to run the Post Office out of business, since the stunt won't be universal for a long time yet.

Rhine River Boats—The Navy recently placed in service the first new-type patrol craft for its Rhine River patrol. Rear Adm. Carl F. Holden, Commander, U. S. Naval Forces, Germany, accepted the new, 80-foot craft, from the German ship builders and directed Capt. B. A. Robbins, USN, Commanding Officer of the patrol to place her in service. The new boat has a ten foot beam, and draws three feet of water. It will gradually replace and augment the wooden-hulled TF-Class patrol boats, which were used as torpedo retrieving vessels by the former German navy.

The "USN 21," as the boat is identified, was brought overland on the autobahn from the Danube River on special trucking equipment owned by the German railroad. Daniel B. Daffron, Chief Boatwain's Mate, USN, is skipper of the new craft which will operate out of the patrol station at Schlierstein near Wiesbaden.

Expand Aircraft Plant

A $700,000 addition, totaling approximately 54,000 square feet, has been authorized for AlResearch Manufacturing Company of Arizona by the Board of Directors of The Garrett Corporation, it is announced by J. C. Garrett, president of the Los Angeles concern.

Members of the Board recently visited Phoenix, Ariz., to inspect the current facilities and to attend the manufacturing company's first open house for families of employees, the military and community leaders.

Construction of the new addition will expand the immediate facility to approximately 154,000 square feet. Building area contemplated for the future may encompass 750,000 square feet.

The approved funds will make possible the addition of factory and office area, a warehouse and a cafeteria. The factory addition will be utilized to speed the recently announced multi-million dollar Navy gas turbine production program scheduled for the Arizona Company and the AlResearch Manufacturing Company in Los Angeles. The modern, air conditioned Phoenix plant was planned for easy expansion and will not require major structural changes for additions now or in the future. Future expansion will be geared to the country's defense program.

AlResearch Manufacturing Company of Arizona is currently manufacturing electronic controls for the latest military aircraft. The production of the small gas turbine engine and other pneumatic equipment is scheduled to begin soon, depending upon the delivery of special machinery. The hiring of additional personnel will also await the arrival of machinery.

Weddings and Engagements

B RIG. GEN. and Mrs. Willard Ames Holbrook, USA-Ret., of Washington, D. C., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Joanne Stanley, to Capt. George Smith Patton, USA, son of Mrs. George Smith Patton and the late General Patton.

Miss Holbrook is a senior at Sweet Briar College, and is a graduate of Mount Vernon Seminary. Her maternal grandparents are Maj. Gen. and Mrs. John Knowles Herr, USA-Ret., of Washington, D. C. On her father's side she is descended from Francis Cooke of the Mayflower. Her paternal grandfather was Maj. Gen. Willard Ames Holbrook, who, like her maternal grandfather, General Herr, was Chief of Cavalry of the Army. Her father was a combat tank commander under General Patton, and received the Silver Star and Bronze Star for repeated gallantry in battles of the Third Army.

Captain Patton is a graduate of the U. S. Military Academy of the Class of '46. He attended St. Albans and the Hill School. He was graduated from the Infantry School at Ft. Benning, Ga., and has served overseas for four years. He is stationed at Ft. Knox, Ky., as a member of the Advanced Class of the Armored School.

Miss Holbrook is a member of the D.A.R. Army Chapter here. She and Captain Patton plan to be married in Washington in June.

Miss Daisy DeBaun has chosen 22 Dec. as the date of her forthcoming marriage to Lt. Joseph Koler, jr., USMC, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Koler of Tacoma, Wash.

She will be married at an afternoon service in the Sacred Heart Church, Coronado, Calif. Her sister, Mrs. W. O. Teague, jr., will serve as her matron of honor. Two attractive service juniors will be her bridesmaids, Misses Gypsy Kirsch and Mary Elizabeth Rodee. Miss DeBaun is the daughter of Mrs. Wheeler DeBaun of Coronado and Rear Adm. George H. DeBaun, USN, Ret., of New York City.

Mrs. Robert A. Amundson of Rochester, Minn., announces the engagement of her daughter, Mary Gail, to Lt. Francis Joseph Cunnion, USAF, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter J. Cunnion of New York City.

The prospective bride was a student at DePaul University and is a graduate of the Norwegian-American School of Nursing at Chicago, Ill. She is a lieutenant in the Air Force Nurse Corps and presently is stationed at Rapid City Air Force Base, S. D.

Lieutenant Cunnion was graduated from Fordham University in 1950, where he was Cadet Regimental Commander of the Army and Air Force R.O.T.C. units, and Commanding Officer of the Charter Company of the National Society of Pershing Rifles at that institution. At present he is assigned to the 28th Strategic Reconnaissance Wing at Rapid City AFB.

The Nuptial Mass is planned for 2 Feb. 1952.

Mrs. Raymond Vincent Cramer of Washington, D. C., announces the engagement of her daughter, Dorothy, to William Selden Dodson, son of Dr. and Mrs. Linden S. Dodson of Hillendale, Silver Spring, Md.

The bride-elect, daughter of the late Colonel Cramer, is a graduate of Connecticut College for Women. She is the granddaughter of the late General T. H. Rees and great-granddaughter of the late Maj. J. C. G. Happersett, MC, USA.

Mrs. Dodson attended Franklin and Marshall Academy and is a graduate of the University of North Carolina, where he was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon. He served with the Air Force in World War II and is now with the American Broadcasting Company.

Lt. Comdr. James G. Sharp, USN-Ret., and Mrs. Sharp of La Mesa, Calif., announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruby Lee, to L. F. Hair, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hair of Burlington, Kans. The wedding will be held 24 Nov.

Miss Sharp attended Grossmont High School and San Luis Rey Academy, and was graduated from Olney High School in Philadelphia. She is a member of Theta Tau Sorority. Mr. Hair recently returned from seven-and-a-half months' duty in Korean waters, aboard the USS Orleck.

The wedding of Miss Ruth Ann Neuendorf, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Charles W. Neuendorf, USAF, 102 N. Wakefield

Weddings and Engagements

St., Arlington, Va., to Mr. William F. Watkins, son of Mrs. Rezin Watkins and the late Mr. Watkins of Arlington, was celebrated on 2 Nov. at the Arlington Forest Methodist Church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Harry G. Balthis.

The maid of honor, Miss Shirley Kidwell, and the best man, Mr. Hubert Shockey, are both of Arlington.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the Army and Navy Country Club, and then the young couple left on a wedding trip. They will make their home in Arlington upon their return.

Col. and Mrs. Kelly H. Lewis, USA, of Arlington, Va., announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Martin, to Cadet Edgar Byrd McClung, U. S. Military Academy.

Miss Lewis is a graduate of Tokyo American High School. She attended the International College of the Sacred Heart, Tokyo, Japan, and is a graduate of Mount Vernon Junior College, Washington, D. C.

Cadet McClung is a First Classman at the Military Academy. He is the son of Mrs. Ruth E. McClung of Rupert, W. Va., and Washington, D. C., and the late Mr. Carroll D. McClung.

The wedding will take place in June.

Miss Catherine Anne Sirmyer, daughter of Col. Edgar A. Sirmyer, Jr., USAF, and Mrs. Sirmyer, was married on 10 Nov., at the Base Chapel, Bolling AFB, D. C., to Lt. Gorman Curtis Smith, USA (USMA '51), son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Smith of Durant, Okla.

The bride wore a gown of white satin designed with a fitted bodice, a deep yoke of heirloom lace which had been worn by her maternal grandmother, and a long full skirt ending in a court train. Her fingertip veil of tulle was held by a coronet of seed pearls, and she carried a bridal bouquet of white roses. Mrs. Robert N. Ginsburgh of Washington was the bride's only attendant. Lt. John H. Craigie was best man and the ushers were Maj. Robert N. Ginsburgh, Maj. Foster L. Smith, Lt. Comdr. Shofner Smith and Lt. Robert T. Simpson.

The bride is the granddaughter of Col. Edgar A. Sirmyer, Ret., and Mrs. Sirmyer of Tampa, Fla., and of the late Col. and Mrs. Charles L. Foster. She attended Peabody Conservatory at Baltimore, and the University of Connecticut. She has recently returned with her parents from Tokyo, Japan, where she spent a year. The bridegroom is stationed at Ft. Benning, Ga.

Miss Nancy Lee Selecman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Alan Selecman of Washington, and Lt. Thomas Ferguson Davidson 2d, USAF, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorimer A. Davidson, also of Washington, were married 10 Nov. in the Mt. Vernon Place Methodist Church, Washington, D. C.

Miss Peggy Putnam of El Toro, Calif., was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were the Misses Naoma Muller of Babylon, L. I., Anne Powell of Albermarle, N. C., and Dorothy Bell of Riverdale, and Marilyn McMurray of Washington.

Lt. John Woodall, USAF, of Washington, was best man. Ushers were Lt. August Euler, USAF, of Dayton; Clifford Woodford of Washington; Arthur Delheim of Baltimore; and Lt. Eugene Lubarsky, USAF, of Savannah.

After a wedding trip to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., the couple will make their home in Dayton, where Lieutenant Davidson is stationed.

The bride was graduated from the woman's college of the University of North Carolina. Lieutenant Davidson graduated from the University of Maryland.

Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Chapman of 604 Pollard Park, Williamsburg, Va., announce the engagement of their daughter Edith Frances Brigham to Gordon Otis Fraser Johnson, son of Mrs. Margaret L. Johnson of Washington, D. C.

Miss Brigham is a graduate of Connecticut College for Women. She was Graduate Assistant in Political Science at the Maxwell School, Syracuse University and is now with E.C.A. in Washington.

Mr. Johnson is a graduate of the Noble & Greenough School, Dedham, Massachusetts, and of Stanford University. He received the M.B.A. degree from the Harvard Business School and is now with the E.C.A.

The wedding will take place 29 Dec. at the Bruton Parish Church, Williamsburg.

CAMP CARSON, COLO. Playing an important part in the production of the RKO movie, "The Korean Story," now being filmed at Camp Carson is Maj. Ralph E. Niffenegger. A veteran of 16 years' service, Major Niffenegger represents Camp Carson's post commander, Brig. Gen. Walter W. Hess, Jr., USA, in the coordination of Army supplies and equipment for the film.

SHEPPARD AFB, TEX. Lt. Col. Ross M. Clem, Deputy Group Commander of the 3750th Technical Training Group, recently returned from Korea and other Far East locations from 60 days temporary duty. He reports he is well pleased with observations concerning the effective work of the graduates of the Airplane and Engine Mechanics School at Sheppard and of the courses at Chanute AFB, Ill.

With Colonel Clem was Lt. Col. John E. Petersdorf from Mather AFB, Calif., who represented the Flying Training Air Force of ATRC, while Colonel Clem represented Technical Training Air Force. Colonel Petersdorf was the officer in charge of this liaison team.

BOSTON, MASS. The Army Officers Wives' Luncheon and Bridge Club held its first season meeting at the Navy Officers' Club at 495 Summer St., Boston, on 8 November. Mrs. Walter W. Boon presided as Chairman.

Hostesses for the day were Mrs. Charles P. Summerall, Jr., Mrs. John C. Smith and Mrs. Charles F. Balsh.

Mrs. Charles G. Helmick, wife of Major General Helmick, New England Subarea Commander, is honorary chairman of the club, which is composed of wives of Army Officers from the Boston Army Base and from the New England Subarea.

HEIDELBERG, GERMANY. On 4 Nov. Lt. Col. and Mrs. L. S. Devore were hosts at a large farewell cocktail party held at the local Macogen Club of Heidelberg. Approximately 80 persons attended, including Brig. Gen. R. M. Hare, EUROM chief of Ordnance, Colonel and Mrs. Devore are departing from HQ EUROM, where Colonel Devore has been Chief of Ordnance Maintenance, EUROM. The Devores are going to Erie Depot, Lacarne, Ohio.

FT. SAM HOUSTON, TEX. In keeping with a policy established last March, the Ladies of the G-1 section, 4th Army Headquarters, Ft. Sam Houston, under the guidance of Mrs. Frank Searcy, recently sponsored another of their monthly birthday parties on Wards 22 and 23 at Brooke Army Hospital.

Mrs. Sam Meyers added to the festivities by taking candid camera shots of the honorees. Mrs. William Frenzel, who was chairman of the committee for October, caused considerable merriment with incongruous rubber masks which she distributed as card game prizes.

Other ladies serving included Mrs. William E. Watters, Mrs. Alex McKenzie, Mrs. D. Horlander and Mrs. Lawrence J. Heiserer.

ARGENTIA, NEWFOUNDLAND. Bowling is one of the chief topics of conversation among the McAndrew Air Force Base Officers' Wives. League play has reached the halfway mark with the six teams of five members each fighting hard for the trophies to be awarded at the end of the season.

Top team at the moment is "The Riots" captained by Mrs. Leslie H. Wells. The "Perks-a-longs" whose captain is Mrs. Ausie D. Perkins and the "Knuckle-Heads" led by Mrs. Stanley J. Wisniewski are tied for second place. Third place is held by the "Alley-Cats" whose chief is Mrs. Joseph C. Newman. The "Flub-Dubs" and "Gutter-Balls" with captains Mrs. William B. Fanyo and Mrs. William A. Kohl are holding the cellar positions but making a game bid for first place.

WESTOVER FIELD, MASS. The Officers' Wives' Club held a dessert bridge and canasta party on 8 Nov. Mrs. Millard Libby and Mrs. Wallace Wright poured. Bridge prizes were won by Mrs. Robert Kurtz, high; Mrs. Harry Jones, second and Mrs. Ben James, consolation. Canasta winners were Mrs. Robert Linehan and Mrs. David E. Dibble. Hostesses were Mrs. Richard Klotz, Mrs. John Jett and Mrs. Fred H. Pape.

LUKE AFB, ARIZ. Mrs. Thomas L. Mosley, wife of the recently appointed commanding officer, was introduced at the regular monthly luncheon and business meeting of the Luke Officers Wives Club on 6 Nov.

The hospitality committee, with Mrs. Keith Otterbels as escort, presented Mrs. Mosley with a corsage from the club members and escorted her to the luncheon. Mrs. Mosley was introduced by Mrs. Roscoe Haller, club president, and briefly addressed the group.

of commanding officer of the Air Base Group effective 12 Nov.

Colonel Fischer, his wife, Ruth, and their children, Susan, 5, and Mark James, 22 months, are occupying quarters here.

ATLANTA GENERAL DEPOT, GA. The Women's Club held their November meeting at the Officers' Club. After the business meeting and a short piano recital by Miss Sarah Frances McDaniels, Mrs. Claude Flannigan, chairman of the program committee, presented Brig. Gen. G. H. Vogel, Depot Commander, who spoke to the ladies.

Mrs. Frank Hinkley, hospitality chairman, announced a tea in honor of new members on 14 Nov. Mrs. Enoch Hoyle gave the plans for a Bake Sale that the club is to sponsor for the benefit of Army Relief.

Tea was served with Mrs. Vogel, honorary president, and Mrs. Elmer Grubbs, president, presiding at the tea table.

NORFOLK, VA. Officers wives of the Service Force, Norfolk, had their monthly luncheon on 8 Nov. at the Little Creek Officers' Club. Hostesses were Mrs. G. E. Krouse, Mrs. Arnold Eggen, and Mrs. S. C. Gould. There was a demonstration of Christmas decorations for the home by Mrs. T. Annarino.

FT. SILL, OKLA. Army personnel and civilian employees have made Ft. Sill's share of the national plasma drive a complete success during the first six weeks of operation. A total of 3,600 pints of blood were donated during that period and sent to a Los Angeles laboratory for processing into plasma.

LA ROCHELLE, FRANCE. Mrs. Charles C. Blanchard, wife of the Commanding General, Base Section, EUCOM Com Z, entertained 50 members of the Officers' Wives' Club, La Rochelle, France, at a recent luncheon in her home.

At the business meeting, which followed, plans were completed for a Rummage and Bake Sale on 10 Nov. The Welfare Committee, with Mrs. Charles W. Gettys as Chairwoman, were in charge. The Social Committee, with Mrs. Mark H. Gilman in charge, assisted.

Plans for the Christmas activities were also discussed.

NEW ORLEANS PORT OF EMBARKATION. Lt. Col. Joseph E. Gaudet, Chief, Supply Branch, Overseas Supply Division, has been alerted for a tour of duty in the Caribbean.

Lt. Col. Tony C. Frank has reported for duty in the Overseas Supply Division as QMC representative.

WOJG David M. LaMay, an ex-Navy machinist's mate who switched over to the Army in 1949, has reported for duty on the NOPE training barge BC-280. He was transferred here from Ft. Eustis, Va.

FITZSIMONS AFB, COLO. The Fitzsimons Army Hospital Officers' Wives Luncheon Club held their monthly meeting 6 Nov. with 116 members present. Mrs. Shamsi Najafzadeh, wife of Brigadier General Mokhtar Najafzadeh of the Imperial Iranian Medical Corps, was welcomed to the Club. The General is at Fitzsimons for duty in chest surgery and for observation training. His tour is sponsored by the U.S. Military Mission to Iran.

Mrs. Omar Quade introduced Mrs. Elizabeth Porter, Director of the Fitzsimons Red Cross, who told of the urgent need for more Red Cross workers. Following committee reports, Mr. Leon Bennett of Denver gave a delightful demonstration of hat designing, accompanied by highly diverting humor.

Mrs. Paul I. Robinson described the plans for enlarging and improving the Officers Club and this met with the enthusiastic response of the membership. Mrs. Raymond M. Williams, Club President, proposed that a morning coffee be held occasionally to help newly arrived officers' wives become acquainted.

DENVER, COLO. Announcement has been made by Brig. Gen. John R. Gilchrist, USAF, Commander of the Air Force Finance Center that Washington approval has been received for the AFFC emblem which will be included in the official USAF flag program. The emblem conforms with the Air Force standards: dark blue background, bordered with gold, and thirteen stars encircling the traditional shield which is topped with an eagle resting on a wreath with white cloud in background.

All Air Force emblems have this basic design with the interior of the shield portrayed to point up the specific unit. In this case the light blue sky in the shield signifies where all-over Air Force missions are performed. The golden key, emblematic of trust, integrity and custody, and with the sword emblematic of military authority and justice, are representative of the mission of the Air Force Finance Center.

The mountain range, emblematic of graphical vastness, is symbolic of the all-over program of the Air Force Finance Center. Center personnel prepared emblem designs for the AFFC last July, which were submitted to Washington. The approved emblem included several design ideas and special recognition will be given, at a later date, to those employees whose designs were used.

HICKAM AFB, HONOLULU, T. H. Lt. Harry N. O'Connor, USN, aide and Flag Lieutenant to Rear Adm. John M. Hoskins, USN, Pacific Division, Military Air Transport Service Commander, has received orders to report to the Navy's General Line School, Naval Air Station, at Monterey, Calif. The O'Connors will depart in early January. Lieutenant and Mrs. O'Connor, the former Helen Louise Rawlings of Boston, have one child, Kevin R., age 10 months.

Replacing Lieutenant O'Connor will be Lt. Gordon Stanley, USN, who is reporting from duty with Commander, Air Forces, Pacific Fleet, at Naval Air Station, San Diego, Calif.

STEWART AFB, TENN. One of the most difficult and backbreaking jobs in the Air Force, that of changing and repairing aircraft tires, has been virtually eliminated at this troop carrier base. M/Sgt. Vincent F. Mercaldo has invented an "automatic" tire changer, made from salvaged material, that may save the government literally millions of dollars in labor costs.

Heretofore, it required four men eight hours to break down, repair and remount an aircraft tire the size for a B-26 nose-wheel. With Sergeant Mercaldo's invention, two men can do the same work in less than one hour.

In an ingenious application of the hydraulic principle, Sergeant Mercaldo's device eliminates almost all of the manual effort. Large rings (bead breakers) fitted to the edges of the tire, are forced downward and upward simultaneously under hydraulic pressure, breaking both sides of the tire at the same time. From then on it is a mere matter of applying a specially-made "spoon" that slides along the rim of the wheel, raising the edge of the tire from inside the wheel. After repair has been made, the process is reversed.

SAN DIEGO, CALIF. The 176th anniversary of the founding of the Marine Corps was celebrated with pomp and ceremony both at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot and at Camp Pendleton, on 10 Nov. The events were strictly formal and the spotlight fell on the colorful uniform of the Marine and Navy officers and on their ladies in smart Fall evening dress.

The club rooms were gaily decorated in the service colors, scarlet and gold, and the piece de resistance was the giant birthday cake which at both commands was lighted with 176 candles.

Maj. Gen. William T. Clement, commanding officer of the post, had the honor of cutting the huge cake at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot while at Camp Pendleton, Maj. Gen. Oliver P. Smith's sword cut the first slice from their much decorated cake.

General and Mrs. Clement hosted a party of 24 for dinner in their quarters preceding the anniversary celebration as did General and Mrs. Smith. Guests at the latter party included: Capt. and Mrs. Edward P. Kunkel, Col. and Mrs. Raymond F. Crist, Edward Snedeker, J. H. Hudnall and E. H. Price.

Guests at the Clements party were: General and Mrs. Holland M. Smith, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Reginald H. Ridgely, Vice Adm. and Mrs. Thos. L. Sprague, Rear Adms. and Mrs. Wilder D. Baker, George R. Henderson, J. E. Gingsrich, John W. Roper, Adm. and Mrs. Frederick C. Sherman, Capt. and Mrs. Orville Goss, Fargo Balliet, Col. and Mrs. G. N. Carroll and Mr. and Mrs. W. U. Sanderson.

Another party occasioned by the birthday celebration was hosted by Maj. Gen. and Mrs. John T. Selden who after dinner took their guests to the Marine Corps Club. Included were: Vice Adm. and Mrs. I. N. Kiland, Rear Adm. L. S. Sabin, Mrs. Paul Wallace, Col. and Mrs. K. N. Benner and John C. Miller.

ANNAPOLIS, MD. Vice Adm. and Mrs. Harry W. Hill attended the Maryland-Navy football game last Saturday. That night they were the guests of General and Mrs. Clifton B. Cates at the Marine Corps Anniversary dinner and ball in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer M. Jackson entertained last Sunday afternoon at their Ward home in honor of Mrs. Jackson's brother-in-law and sister, Rear Adm. and Mrs. Theodore Haff, who are making their home in Annapolis.

Mrs. George Keester, wife of Captain Keester, USN-Ret., was hostess last week at her home on Duke of Gloucester St., to the William H. Murray Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

Capt. and Mrs. Valentine Pottle of Washington were guests here over the last weekend. The Naval Post Graduate School Staff Wives' Club held their last meeting before the School's move to Monterey, Calif., last week at the Officers Club. A parody on "California Here We Come" arranged by Mrs. Orval Polk, was the feature of the meeting, sung by six members of the Club. The tea table arranged by Mrs. Wells Thompson cleverly depicted the theme, showing moving vans and cars on the highway. Pouring at the tea table were Mrs. Paul J. Kleffer, Mrs. Frederick Connon, Mrs. Edwin Lee, Jr., and Mrs. G. F. Kinney. Assisting Mrs. Thompson were Mrs. T. H. Brittain and Mrs. Miller J. Smith.

Mrs. Armon Bronson, widow of Captain Bronson, USN-Ret., is visiting Mrs. Richard Wainwright of Franklin St. Mrs. Bronson, formerly of Annapolis, has recently returned from Honolulu.

Comdr. and Mrs. Leslie C. Davis of Homeport Farm, have issued invitations to an "at home" on 17 Nov.

Rear Adm. and Mrs. Philip P. Welch returned last week from Hendersonville, N. C., and have been spending the past few days at Carvel Hall.

OFFUTT AFB, NEBR. Santa Claus is going to get a helpful hand this Christmas from a group of airmen and officers. Underprivileged children in Omaha, Bellevue and the surrounding area will find gifts from Offutt personnel under their Christmas trees.

In charge of the collection of toys, dolls, and games here on the base is Sgt. Howard Sowers, SAC A/G Mail and Records.

FT. HOOD, TEX. The famed First Armored Division, more than 15,000 men and six training months strong, showed itself in full strength for the first time in five years on 10 Nov. at a full dismounted review, commemorating Armistice Day. Congressmen W. R. Poage of the 11th Congressional District, Lt. Gen. LeR. Lutes, Fourth Army commander, Maj. Gen. J. H. Collier, Inspector of Armor at the Office of the Chief of Army Field Forces and Maj. Gen. R. B. Woodruff, XVth Corps commander from Camp Polk, La., joined Maj. Gen. Bruce C. Clarke, commander of the First Armored and Fort Hood in reviewing the only tactical Armored division in the United States today.

Sixty-seven veterans of the Korean conflict were decorated during the ceremony by the distinguished guests of the First Armored. Congressman Poage presented the Distinguished Service Cross, the nation's second highest decoration, to Sergeant Robert C. Carroll, Sergeant Carroll came to the review from a Fort Hood Hospital bed to receive his decoration. He returned to the hospital after the ceremonies.

WEST POINT, N. Y. A set of five life-size oil portraits of the Generals of the Army and the late General of the Air Force, painted by Thomas E. Stephens of New York City, were presented to the U. S. Military Academy at a reception last week in Grant Hall.

In formally receiving the portraits, USMA Superintendent Maj. Gen. Frederick A. Irving paid tribute to the Army's five great leaders of World War II and expressed the sorrow of the graduates and cadets of the Military Academy that General of the Air Force H. H. Arnold had answered the last call of duty. General Irving added that the portrait collection, now numbering 231, in addition to constituting a notable memorial to many of the nation's greatest statesmen and soldiers, is even more a summons to West Pointers of today and tomorrow to follow the great tradition of service set by their predecessors.

Those present at the reception besides the Superintendent and Mrs. Irving were Mrs. Henry J. Arnold, widow of the General of the Air Force, and two of their sons, Maj. William B. Arnold and Lt. David L. Arnold; Mr. Stephens, the artist; Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt M. Lockman, Mr. Adolph A. Weinman, Mrs. Arthur F. Brinckerhoff, Mr. and Mrs. David Marx, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Harris Jones, Mrs. Chauncey L. Fenton, other senior officers on duty at West Point and their wives, and the senior cadet officers of the Corps of Cadets.

A little over two years ago, Mr. Stephens visited General Arnold at his home near Sonoma, Calif., where the sittings for the West Point portrait took place. Last year he traveled to Tokyo to paint General of the Army Douglas MacArthur, and the Dwight D. Eisenhower portrait was painted last year at Columbia University. Sittings for the George C. Marshall and Omar N. Bradley portrait took place in Washington during the present year.

Ft. Sill Rent Controls

The Ft. Sill-Lawton, Okla., area has been declared a "critical defense housing area" for re-establishment of rent controls, the Defense Production Administration has announced.

Since June 1950, the population at Ft. Sill has increased about 300 per cent. Reports show that rents have increased an average of 35 per cent since decontrol. Investigation in the area, said the DPA, has shown that some landlords have reported raised rents as much as 50 per cent above levels permitted under previous controls.

Too Much Rank

officers to four-star rank—are due to come up for Senate consideration early in 1952. The likelihood is that these nominations will not be adversely affected by the Subcommittee's report on "administrative top heaviness of our Armed Forces," but nonetheless it must be expected that nominations of generals and admirals will be reviewed even more closely in the second session of the 82d Congress than was the case in 1951.

Text of Report

The following is the text of the Subcommittee's interim report on "Administrative Top-Heaviness of Our Armed Forces":

One of the more alarming trends in military organization during the past few years has been the increasing administrative top heaviness of our Armed Forces. Each member of the committee has been concerned about and wants to correct this condition.

In its most obvious form, this trend has manifested itself by a heavy concentration of high-ranking officers in Washington, D. C. But it is also evident in the huge number of civilians now working for the Defense Department in the Washington area.

The high concentration of "upper brass" is apparent to the most casual observer of the Washington scene. Even a noontime stroller down any street in the midsection of the city is likely to encounter at least a few officers of general or "flag" rank.

Members of Congress have the situation called to their attention much more forcibly—in fact, it is literally thrust upon them.

It is rare that a congressional committee meets upon any subject affecting the armed services without finding the hearing room jammed with high-ranking officers and Defense Department civilian officials.

At a recent meeting of the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee, 14 assorted officials from one defense agency appeared to testify. Their ranks ranged from lieutenant colonel to four-star general and from civilian technician to secretary.

As most of these officials contributed nothing to the hearing, it was difficult to escape the impression of a woeful and unnecessary waste of manpower.

At the conclusion of the hearing, the chairman of the subcommittee admonished the secretary in question that similar episodes should be avoided in the future. He stated that two informed officials would have been sufficient for the purposes of the committee—one to discuss policy matters and the other to discuss technical details.

The others, he added, should be put to some better use.

Results Astonishing

The chairman requested that his remarks be brought to the attention of the Secretaries of the Army, Navy, and Air Force. He later directed the subcommittee staff to obtain and study exact figures on the number of general and flag officers and the number of Defense Department civilian employees in the Washington, D. C., area.

The results of the study were astonishing. They disclosed that the United States is operating a military machine of less than 3,500,000 men with nearly the same number of generals, admirals, and civilian employees in Washington that it had on VE-day when the total number of men in uniform was well over 12,000,000.

The figures speak for themselves:

	Apr. 30, 1945 (near VE-day)	Sept. 30, 1951
General and flag officers in Washington area: <sup>1</sup>
Army	2279	139
Air Force		98
Navy	103	100
Marine Corps	15	15
Total	397	361
Defense Department civilian employees in Washington area: <sup>1</sup>
Secretary of Defense activities <sup>2</sup>		2,148
Army		38,057
Air Force	51,202	8,345
Navy and Marine Corps	48,869	42,531

No Justification

On the face of it, there can be no justification for these figures.

And in appraising these figures, it should be remembered that on the 30th of April 1945, the United States possessed the largest fighting force in its history and the most powerful military machine in the history of the world. It had just concluded the defeat of the Axis Powers in Europe and was readying itself for the final blow against the Japanese Empire.

The subcommittee recognizes the fact that war has now become much more complex than in the past and that new types of organization are undoubtedly required to meet the needs of our armed services. But it can hardly be argued that we need nearly the same number of admirals, generals, and civilian employees in Washington for 3½ million uniformed men that we needed for 12 million.

These figures give rise to some disturbing thoughts. The Armed Forces of the United States that defeated the Axis Powers were approximately 3½ times the size of our present combined Army, Navy, Air Force, and Marine Corps. It is entirely possible that in a major war we would return to that strength.

On that basis, would we have to multiply our present staffs of generals and admirals in Washington by 3½? Would we have to staff the Pentagon with 1,256 generals and flag officers? Would we have to jam 321,695 civilian employees into the Defense Department buildings in the Capital area?

There is no need to belabor this point. It is obvious that the Defense Establishment is tending toward an administrative top heaviness that is inefficient, wasteful, and dangerous. Unless the trend is halted now we could, in the classic phrase, wind up with the fighting forces composed of "all chiefs and no Indians."

The Senate Preparedness Subcommittee plans to continue its study of the conditions outlined in this interim report. It is to be hoped that time will not be wasted on excuses to justify the situation outlined above, but that a real attempt to eliminate wasteful and extravagant use of personnel will be made.

Recommendation

The subcommittee recommends that the Secretary of Defense conduct a thorough review of the number of general and flag officers and Defense Department civilian personnel in the Washington area with a view to determining whether their numbers could be reduced by more efficient utilization, with a report of such review made to the subcommittee upon its completion.

Patent Review Board

Individuals, corporations, associations and other organizations will be given an opportunity to submit recommendations concerning all phases of patent policy and associated matters to the Department of Defense through a new Patent Policy Review Board.

Chairman of the Board is Rear Adm. C. M. Bolster, Chief of Naval Research. The other members are Maj. Gen. E. M. Brannon, Judge Advocate General of the Army, and Maj. Gen. R. C. Harman, Judge Advocate of the Air Force.

Board members will review all phases of patent policy, including individual and organizational presentations, and will make recommendations to the Secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force as to what patent policies or changes in policy are in the best interest of the national defense.

Statements, suggestions and questions for the attention of the Patent Policy Review Board should be typed or printed in quadruplicate and sent to the Chairman of the Patent Policy Review Board, Office of Naval Research, Department of the Navy, Washington 25, D. C. by 15 Jan. 1952.

When requested in writing, arrangements for oral presentations before the Board may be made.

Navy-Marine Morals Program

The Navy and Marine Corps have initiated a four-point program for the "protection and further development of moral standards" in the two services.

General Clifton B. Cates, Marine Corps Commandant, and Vice Adm. Lawrence T. DuBose, Chief of Naval Personnel, have directed Navy and Marine commanders in every echelon to advance the new program in their commands.

Under the new program, enlisted personnel will be given group instruction and personal interviews on matters that promote realization and development of moral, spiritual and religious values.

Commanders have been instructed to take a personal interest in the off-duty activities of the men and women in their commands, and to see that they get well-rounded programs of religious, educational and recreational activities.

Entertainment at Naval and Marine bases will have to conform to established moral standards in the future, as will the activities of officers' and enlisted men's clubs, and the contents of ship, station and post newspapers and other publications sold or circulated within Navy and Marine commands.

Commanding officers were directed also to cooperate with civilian and military agencies which contribute to the moral and social well-being of personnel.

Chaplains will be key figures in implementing the program. Other staff members, including special services, welfare and recreation, medical and information and education officers, will contribute.

Income Tax Council

The Defense Department has taken a main step toward solving inter-service income tax headaches by establishing the Armed Services Individual Income Tax Council.

The new Council will coordinate all matters involving Federal income tax laws, regulations and rulings, "insofar as they pertain to the obligation of the Department as employers, and to the rights, benefits and liabilities of their personnel, civil and military."

In a recent directive, issued by Assistant Secretary of Defense W. J. McNeill, three representatives were appointed to the Council—one from each of the military departments. Comdr. J. August Johnson, jr., SC, USNR, of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, is designated as the Navy's representative; Lt. Col. C. E. Royer, JAG, represents the Army; and the Air Force JAG has named Edward J. Berdaus.

Commander Johnson will perform the additional task of Action Agent and Liaison Officer between the Treasury Department and the Bureau of Internal Revenue and Defense Department on all matters within the cognizance of the new coordinating body.

Prior to the establishment of the Council, the military services independently issued instructions and interpretations concerning their respective tax matters.

The new coordinating body will provide for the first time a speedy, efficient channel for disseminating uniform instructions and interpretations to the military services. In addition the Council will provide the Treasury Department and the Bureau of Internal Revenue with one contact for all individual income tax problems that funnel in constantly from Army, Navy and Air Force.

The joint coordination action will also relieve the unproportional load the Navy has carried the past several years, during which period Navy Supply Corps Officers rendered tax assistance to civilian and military personnel.

Clear the Decks

Clear The Decks, by Rear Adm. Daniel V. Gallery, USN (William Morrow & Co., $3.50).

Admiral Gallery begins his story with a statement that "Serious students of military strategy who have digested the reports of Eisenhower, Halsey, and 'Howlin' Mad' Smith can afford to skip this yarn." He explains that "Pentagon historians will quote nothing from this volume, and the National War College will make no revisions in its curriculum based on the incidents" related in Clear The Decks.

This forthright announcement sets the tone for a skillfully told account of Admiral Gallery's own war-time experiences, spiced with humorous anecdotes. Now Commanding Officer of a Navy carrier division in the Atlantic, the Admiral concerns himself in his book with his war-time ship, the baby flattop Guadalcanal, the high-spirited ship's company, and the cussedness, resourcefulness and skill that distinguished the American male animal.

Known for his outspoken manner, Admiral Gallery pulls no punches when he discusses his senior officers ("I've known Admiral King for a long time, and I would rather not serve directly under him, except in battle. He is rather unreasonable about expecting other people to be as good as he is."), the Washington command post ("A lot of books have been written about the shrewd military strategy and tactics which led to victory in the various theatres. When I read some of the tripe that has been printed about the strategy and planning of World War II, I have a tendency to throw up."), the Navy Department ("The Founding Fathers of this country must have foreseen the evolution of the Navy Department when they adopted the motto, 'In God We Trust'"), and everything else that falls within his purview.

One of the most exciting chapters of the book tells of the capture of the German U-boat U-505, the first time since 1815 that an American Naval Commander had captured a foreign enemy man-of-war in battle on the high seas.

The book is humorous, interesting, and well-written. It should make good reading for anyone who enjoys a well-turned tale.

Ft. Campbell Construction

Contractors have been invited to bid on the construction of permanent troop housing and supporting facilities at Ft. Campbell, Ky., it has been announced by the office of the Louisville, Ky., District Engineer.

The complete project, numbering 79 buildings of concrete block and concrete frame construction, lists the following: Thirty-four enlisted men's barracks, 225-man capacity each; eight enlisted men's barracks, 165-man capacity each; four bachelor officers' quarters, 25-man capacity each; eleven battalion headquarters buildings; eleven motor repair shops; one carpenter and paint shop; one utility shop; one communications building; two warehouses, 200 feet by 800 feet; one warehouse, 70 feet by 220 feet; a fire station; and a guard-house.

In addition, plans call for appurtenant site grading, roads, walks, parking areas and sewer, water, and electrical distribution systems.

Ft. McClellan Housing

A total of 175 rental units have been approved for future development at Fort McClellan, Anniston, Ala.

Construction of the privately financed rental housing will be under Title VIII of the National Housing Act. The act encourages the building of such units on, or in the immediate vicinity of military installations.

The approval today brings to 21,011 the number of rental units approved to date for army installations.

College in Korea

The University of California has opened two education centers for the Army in Korea.

One is in Taegu, the other in Pusan. Altogether, there are 31 education centers in the Far East Command.

Big Little Railroad

One of the biggest little railroads in the country is operated by the Army over 55 miles of track at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds in Maryland.

Trains have a monthly capacity of 30,000,000 pounds of in and outbound freight on 700 cars and transport 115,000 passengers over the sprawling testing laboratory.

ConAC Air Chaplain

Chaplain (Col.) Paul J. Giegerich has assumed duties as Air Chaplain of the Continental Air Command with headquarters at Mitchel AFB, N. Y.

Formerly Air Chaplain of the Air Materiel Command at Dayton, Ohio, Chaplain Giegerich succeeds Chaplain (Col.) William W. Sissel, who was recently appointed Air Chaplain of the Far East Air Force's Fifth Air Force in Korea.

President Vetoes Bill

President Truman has vetoed H.R. 5411, a bill to provide for construction, maintenance and operation of elementary and secondary schools in localities where Government defense activities have created unusual burdens.

Mr. Truman said that, although the basic purpose of the bill is meritorious, it contains a segregation provision which he cannot approve. He pointed out that the bill would require Federal schools on military bases and other Federal property to conform to the laws of the States in which they are located.

He said, "This is a departure from the provisions of Public Laws 815 and 874, which required only that the education provided under these circumstances should be comparable to that available to other children in the State."

The President added that the purpose of the proposed change "is clearly to require that schools operated solely by the Federal Government on federally owned land, if located in any of 17 States, shall be operated on a segregated basis 'to the maximum extent practicable'."

He said the proposal if enacted into law, "would constitute a backward step" in the efforts of the Government "to extend equal rights and opportunities to all our people." Mr. Truman said he hoped the Congress "early in the next session will reconsider this matter carefully and will reenact legislation to provide the school aid urgently required in critical defense housing areas without the objectionable provision of H.R. 5411."

Crash Trucks Ordered

The Air Force has awarded a contract in excess of $10,000,000 to the Marmon-Herrington Company of Indianapolis for production of hundreds of special crash trucks to be used for fire-fighting purposes at and near airports.

The new crash truck, known as the Model O-10, is the first of the modern post-war crash fire fighting vehicles being produced in quantity to supersede existing or World War II fire-fighting equipment.

The crash truck was designed for operations ranging from the heat of the desert to the Arctic cold. The vehicle will operate in temperatures down to 65° below zero and up to 130° above zero. This requirement necessitates, among other things, an automatic generating system so that batteries are kept fully charged at all times and the engines are kept warm and ready to go without delay. The new O-10 is a high speed vehicle designed to reach a crash within seconds after it occurs; the truck incorporates All-Wheel-Drive so that it may operate over rough terrain such as ploughed fields, ditches and other uneven ground which might surround an airstrip.

Coast Guard Graduates

Law degrees were awarded five Coast Guard men during the Fall Convocation of The George Washington University this week, in Lisner Auditorium, Washington, D. C.

Lt. Francis D. Heyward received a Bachelor of Laws; and Lt. Comdr. Edward C. Allen, Jr., Comdr. Kingdrel N. Ayers, Lt. Comdr. Joe Louis Horne, and Lt. Comdr. Robert R. Russell, all received Juris Doctor degrees.

Commander Ayers and Commander Horne both graduated with distinction. All five stood in the top ten of their class of 116 men and women receiving LLB and JD degrees.

In honor of the occasion, Vice Adm. Merlin O'Neill, Commandant of the Coast Guard, took part in the Academic Procession.

B.A. for AF Cpl.

Air Force Cpl. Melvin G. Pfeferstein received a Bachelor of Arts degree during the Fall Convocation exercises of The George Washington University held this week.

Corporal Pfeferstein was the first enlisted man to earn a degree under the Bolling Field Air Force training program at university.

AF Officers Serve On Chamber Committees

Maj. Gen. C. V. Haynes, USAF, Commanding General, Sheppard AFB, Tex., has selected 16 Air Force officers to serve on committees of the Wichita Falls, Tex., Chamber of Commerce.

The action was taken to provide the closest possible community relations between the civilian population and the 40,000 military personnel at the air base.

Selection of the group by the commanding general followed receipt of the program of work prepared by the Chamber entitled "Blueprint for a Better City" together with a request from R. Mills Tittle, Chamber president, that officer-committeemen be chosen.

Sheppard officers are serving on committees which have base counterparts, some of which, with military personnel, are:

Housing: Lt. Col. Willard E. Karschnick, Wing Operations Officer, 3750th Technical Training Wing.

Safety Council: Maj. James P. Anglum, Assistant Wing Personnel Officer, 3750th Technical Training Wing; Maj. Vernon E. Wilson, Air Provost Marshal, 3750th Air Base Group.

Civilian Defense: Maj. William R. Spencer, Assistant Wing Operations Officer, 3750th Technical Training Wing.

Sheppard AFB Relations: Col. Curtis I. Pullig, Commanding Officer, 3750th Air Base Group; Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Theodore R. Leen, Wing Chaplain, 3750th Technical Training Wing; Maj. Thomas E. Duggan, Personnel Services Officer, 3750th Air Base Group; Maj. Vernon H. Hunt, Public Information Officer, 3750th Technical Training Wing.

Manages Dual Plant

James E. Goodman, general manager of the Buick-Oldsmobile-Pontiac Division of General Motors, has announced the appointment of E. C. Klotzburger as manager of GM's new dual-purpose plant at Arlington, Tex.

Mr. Klotzburger, a veteran of 28 years with General Motors, has been manager of the B-O-P Division's Linden, N. J., plant since 1 Oct. 1946.

The B-O-P Division has a letter contract to produce a Grumman-designed airplane for the Navy at the Arlington plant which will be built on a 255-acre site between Dallas and Fort Worth. The plant also will have capacity for assembly of Buick, Oldsmobile and Pontiac passenger cars.

Create New Eng. Div.

Establishment of the East Ocean Division to supervise off-shore military construction assigned to the Corps of Engineers is announced by Lt. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, Army Chief of Engineers.

Headquarters of the new division will be in Richmond, Va., at 800-802 East Broad St. Brig. Gen. Robert G. Lovett, USA, will be the East Ocean Division Engineer. Since June 1949 he has been Assistant Chief of Engineers for Military Supply and Procurement, Washington, D. C.

INDUSTRY * FINANCE * MARITIME

Heads Procurement Agency

Brig. Gen. Robert Parker Hollis, USA, this week assumed command of the New York Quartermaster Procurement Agency, 111 East 16th Street, New York City, relieving Brig. Gen. H. L. Peckham, USA, who will become The Deputy, The Quartermaster General in Washington.

From a peacetime peak in 1949 of $440,000,000, NYQMPA procurement increased during the Fiscal Year 1951 to a total of over $2,000,000,000 in the purchase of clothing, textiles, footwear, equipage, paper and forest products, non-perishable food items, chemicals, and miscellaneous supplies for use by the Armed Forces.

General Hollis was formerly Chief, Supply Division, Office of The Quartermaster General.

G.I. Job Protection

The broader job protection given to veterans of the Armed Forces by the 1951 amendments to the Universal Military Training and Service Act are summarized in the following informational release issued by the Bureau of Veterans' Reemployment Rights of the U. S. Department of Labor:

"The 1951 amendments to the Universal Military Training and Service Act (formerly the Selective Service Act of 1948) broaden the coverage of job protection to include persons who leave positions to enter military service but who are rejected and Reservists who enter military service for short tours of training duty only. They also remove the 'first enlistment' restriction and increase from three to four years the period a person entering or reentering the armed forces after 24 June, 1948, may serve and have re-employment rights.

"These amendments are retroactive and extend job protection to persons now in the military service who were not considered to have reemployment rights at the time they entered the Armed Forces because they accepted enlistments or tours of active duty in excess of three years.

"Reservists, Guardsmen, enlistees, and draftees, who are called to active military service should not overlook this important economic benefit, which restores the veteran to his former position, or such other position to which he may be entitled.

"Service personnel or former service personnel may obtain full information about their specific situation by writing Mr. A. C. Long, Acting Field Representative, at the Bureau of Veterans Reemployment Rights, Room 7312, Department of Labor, Washington 25, D. C. It is advisable that sufficient details be included in any requests for information or assistance, such as the date first employed, the date of entry into military service, the name and address of the employer, and the title of the position vacated."

Increase Electronics Space

The General Electric Company's Electronics Division at Electronics Park, Syracuse, N. Y., will use two buildings and part of a third at Bridgeport, Conn. for the design and manufacture of military electronics equipment. Floor area to be devoted to the new electronics production will total 150,000 square feet.

Advertisers in the Army Navy Air Force Journal support the Armed Forces and are familiar with their requirements.

Merchant Fleet Is Vital

The "merchant marine is just as vital to our needs today as it has ever been," according to Vice Adm. E. I. Cochrane (Ret.), Maritime Administrator and Chairman of the Federal Maritime Board.

Speaking at a luncheon in New York City this week, Admiral Cochrane said the United States "cannot rely safely and solely upon the ships of other nations." He said, "If the tide of world affairs has been turned in this year of 1951, and God grant that it has, American ships have been the balance of power which has made this possible."

The Maritime head declared that the United States merchant marine and our foreign trade have been "strong and vital links supporting our position in a troubled world."

Navy Contracts Let

The Navy has awarded contracts for the construction of 30 165-foot minesweepers and one LSD (landing ship dock).

For the minesweepers, three West Coast shipyards, a Gulf Coast shipyard, two Great Lakes shipyards and an East Coast shipyard received contracts. The Navy said "all but one" of the firms are considered small business firms.

The landing ship dock contract was awarded to the Moore Drydock Company of San Francisco. Rear Adm. Homer N. Wallin, Chief of the Navy's Bureau of Ships, said that contracts for three additional LSD's will be awarded through negotiation on a competitive basis.

Firms receiving contracts for the minesweepers were: Luders Marine Construction Co., Stamford, Conn., four vessels; Higgins, Inc., New Orleans, five vessels; Burger Boat Co., Manitowoc, Wisc., five vessels; Peterson Builders, Inc., Sturgeon Bay, Wisc., three vessels; Bellingham Shipyards Co., Bellingham, Wash., five vessels; Astoria Marine Construction Co., Astoria, Ore., three vessels, and the Wilmington Boat Works, Inc., Wilmington, Calif., five vessels.

Navy Program Wins Plaque

The Navy Department has been awarded the National Association of Suggestion Systems Achievement Plaque for the fiscal year 1951.

The award is presented annually to the Federal agency having the greatest increase in beneficial suggestion participation by its civilian employees. It was accepted on behalf of the Navy by Rear Adm. W. McL. Hague, Chief, Navy Office of Industrial Relations.

During Fiscal Year 1951, Navy employees submitted 51,990 suggestions, 13,146 of which were adopted. The adopted suggestions resulted in employees being granted cash awards totaling $346,828 and in annual savings of $8,414,182 to the Navy.

New Ordnance Plant

An artillery ammunition plant will be established at Burlington, N. J., under the jurisdiction of the Army Chief of Ordnance.

The new facility, to be called the Burlington Ordnance Plant, will be tooled for the production of artillery steel cartridge cases. Production is expected to begin in July, 1952, with a peak employment of about 1,000 persons.

The Rheem Manufacturing Company of Lester, Pa., has been chosen as contractor to operate the plant.

Secy. Pace Names

Scientific Advisors

Secretary of the Army Frank Pace, Jr., and General J. Lawton Collins, USA, Chief of Staff, have announced the formation of the Army Scientific Advisory Panel, composed of leading scientists, technologists and educators.

The following have accepted appointment to the Panel:

Dr. Detlev W. Bronk, president of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md.; president of the National Academy of Sciences, and former chairman of the National Research Council.

Charles Dollard, president of the Carnegie Corporation of New York and former assistant dean of the University of Wisconsin.

C. H. Greenewalt, president of E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Co., Inc., Wilmington, Delaware, who, in World War II, headed duPont's liaison with the atomic scientists of the Hanford Project.

Robert Thomas Haslam, a director of the Ethyl Corporation, New York City, and former professor of chemical engineering at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Dr. Frederick Lawson Howde, president of Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana, and former chairman of the Guided Missiles Committee, Research and Development Board, Department of Defense.

K. T. Keller, chairman of the board of the Chrysler Corporation and Director of Guided Missiles, Office of the Secretary of Defense.

Dr. J. R. Killian, Jr., president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Mass.

Dr. C. C. Lauritsen, professor of physics, California Institute of Technology, Pasadena, Calif.

Morrrough Parker O'Brien, dean, College of Engineering, University of California, Berkeley, Calif.

Dr. William Shockley, head of transistor physics research, Bell Telephone Laboratories, Murray Hill, N. J.

William Webster, vice president, New England Power System, Boston, Massachusetts, and former chairman, Research and Development Board, Department of Defense.

Mr. Pace said that the full panel is not expected to convene in formal sessions on a regular basis. Instead, it will be on call to advise the Secretary and the Chief of Staff on major scientific and technical problems on an individual or sub-committee basis.

Navy De-Mothballs Tools

Approximately 10,000 machine tools—the last of a 47,000 "mothball" stock which the Navy built up from World War II surpluses—are being readied for delivery to Army and Air Force contractors.

Vice Adm. C. W. Fox, Chief of Naval Material, announced the planned program this week. He said the "mothballed" tools have been as important to the present defense effort, in their own way, as the "mothball" fleet.

At the beginning of the Korean conflict, the Navy had acquired and put in good repair 40,000 machine tools and other production equipment, Admiral Fox said. In the 17 months since, 7,000 more items, mostly related production equipment, have been acquired. In the same period, more than 15,000 tools were shipped to Defense contractors needing hard-to-get items.

Approximately 5,000 of the Navy tools have been turned over to the Army and Air Force for distribution to their defense contractors and another 16,000 are in use or are being shipped to Navy contractors working on joint contracts of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics and the Air Force.

Admiral Fox said the Navy's post-World War II program of "mothballing" against possible mobilization has been most successful in helping all the Armed Services during this critical period when new machine tools have not been available in the volume required for the defense effort.

Admiral Fox said that Defense contractors should apply directly to contracting agencies to obtain tools being released from the Navy stock.

Airman Proficiency Program

Specially skilled Air Force personnel from all USAF commands are now at Continental Air Command Headquarters, Mitchell AFB, N. Y., to help develop tests for the AF's new Airman Proficiency Program.

Representing an aggregate of 115 years military experience, this group of one officer and 10 senior Master Sergeants is putting top-flight Air Force know-how into tests which airmen throughout the USAF will soon be taking.

ConAC's Test Development Branch is currently devising tests in the broad USAF Administrative Career Field, covering stenographic, postal and administrative activities.

This Command is working in conjunction with other test development units of the Air Materiel Command at Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio, and the Air Training Command at Scott AFB, Ill., who are producing tests for the Aircraft Maintenance and Communications fields respectively.

USAF Airman Career Fields are assigned by Air Force Headquarters to these test development branches of Continental Air Command, Air Materiel Command and Air Training Command according to established priorities based on the percentage of airmen in each AF specialty. Tests in the AF Career Fields comprising the greatest number of personnel are scheduled for completion first.

According to current estimates, proficiency tests will be developed by April 1952 to cover approximately 80 per cent of the USAF's airmen personnel. When tests for the remaining 20 per cent are finally completed, the USAF will have scientific instruments for measuring individual airman proficiency in 314 Air Force specialties.

Following principles established by such agencies as the U. S. Civil Service Commission and large private industrial organizations, the tests themselves represent the latest development in the field of job proficiency measurement.

The tests will measure an individual airman's qualifications for his job and provide an additional basis for his promotion and upgrading in skill. Airmen who know their jobs are not expected to have difficulty with the tests.

Adhering to the theory that "tests by airmen" will result in a fair and acceptable proficiency program, teams of Master Sergeants from all USAF commands are being gathered to help develop these tests. Ordinarily assigned to one of the three commands' test development units for a 45-day period, they return to their regular units upon completion of their specific test development task. Subsequently another specially selected Master Sergeant team will tackle another USAF Career Field.

The present group of Master Sergeant specialists currently developing Administrative Career Field tests at ConAC's Test Development Branch are making available knowledge and experience gained from their specialized service with organizations such as the Strategic Air Command, Air Training Command, Air Defense Command, Air University, Military Air Transport Service, Air Materiel Command, Air Research and Development Command, and the Continental Air Command itself.

Following completion of the Administrative Field Tests, ConAC will start developing tests in the Transportation Career specialties.

Operating under ConAC's Directorate of Personnel Planning and Management, this Command's Test Development Branch is headed by Capt. Jack W. Tinkle who, as a psychologist and vocational adviser, has had extensive experience in the Veterans Administration Rehabilitation Guidance and Testing program.

Captain Tinkle is assisted by eight other military personnel who are equipped with psychology educational backgrounds or are familiar with military administrative procedures. In addition five civilian research psychologists work exclusively on the test construction phase of this Airman Proficiency project.

Discussing the merits of the Airman Proficiency Test Program, Captain Tinkle expressed his feeling that the Air Force's Airman Career Program as a whole "embodies the finest principles of personnel management which industry and government has to offer."

"It's certainly a great step in the proper direction," the Captain stated. "I am of the opinion that the new proficiency tests, which implement the USAF's Airman Career Program, will put all the Air Force's airmen on an equal footing in regard to consideration for upgrading and promotion. Other things being equal, airmen who know their jobs best will be selected over others," he concluded.

From the subject matter specialist team at ConAC, M/Sgt. Alton B. Freeman, of the Air University, a veteran of nearly 27 years' service:

"I think these tests are going to be the answer to what we're after," the Sergeant stated. "Personally, I've served over four years on airman promotion boards and this new Proficiency Test Program seems to be the nearest we've gotten to a legitimate merit promotion system yet. This will be a real boon for Air Force efficiency and morale. We're really getting somewhere now," he concluded.

For his part, M/Sgt. Fred Miller, of the Strategic Air Command, who has 15 years' service, was equally enthusiastic about the program.

"The thing I like about it," Sergeant Miller disclosed, "is that the tests show, beyond any doubt, the real facts of a man's degree of skill. That, after all, is the primary objective we're after when we're analyzing an airman. It will insure the really good men of getting to the top and lessen the chances of fast talkers and others squeezing into jobs they are not qualified to hold. I think the program will help the Air Force a whole lot."

M/Sgt. Harold C. Williams, of the Tactical Air Command, who has 14 years' service, is also heartily in accord with the program.

"Beyond a doubt," Sergeant Williams stated, "it's the best proficiency test plan to date. It's not just another test program. This is going to do a lot toward improving Air Force efficiency. And it's going to be a great thing for airmen morale, too, when they see that the right men are getting the promotions."

Dedicate Armory

A new Baltimore, Md., Army Reserve Armory, located at Argonne Drive and Hillen Road, will be dedicated on 8 Dec. It is announced by Col. Arthur L. Shreve, Chief of the Maryland Military District.

The armory, to be known as Turner Armory, is named in honor of a Baltimore hero of World War II, T/Sgt. Clifford Curtis Turner, who was killed in action 6 March 1945 during a drive to the Rhine River in Germany. A member of the 10th Armored Infantry Battalion of the Third Army's 4th Armored Division, Sgt. Turner displayed extraordinary heroism in combat and was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross, the Silver Star with Oak Leaf Cluster and the Purple Heart with Oak Leaf Cluster.

Universal Military Training

BY GENERAL OF THE ARMY GEORGE C. MARSHALL

Today, we face a troubled world, a dangerous world. We are engaged in an historic effort to create an enduring system for the future to keep us safe during the prolonged period of tension which can be expected to continue until the Soviet Government demonstrates good faith in cooperating in a world effort to relieve the present necessity for the democracies to maintain large military forces on guard against sudden hostile acts of aggression.

How can we be prepared for a prompt war deployment unless we maintain the heavy, almost impossible, burden of large forces on continuous active duty at a vast cost? My answer is by a system of universal military training. And why does such a system offer a practical solution giving us strength and yet materially reducing costs?

Because it means that in ground forces we would always have quickly available, as quickly as we could find shipping for them, a large force of reserves requiring only a small charge for their maintenance until the actual call to active duty was made. For the Air, universal military training would mean ground crews for reserve units well along in their training, and flight crews almost equally advanced. For the Navy it would mean the reserves immediately to man the ships suddenly taken out of the so-called moth balls. And all of this would be even a greater deterrent, I think, to possible aggressors or murderers of world peace than even the atomic power now in a rapid state of development.

The prompt action of Congress in the early months of next year to implement the basic UMT law adopted last spring will be an historic action for world peace, an act consistent with our responsibility for world leadership.

War in Korea

week took place in the Sinanju area, where enemy jets attempted to interfere with the Allied interdiction bombing effort. In addition to the two American planes lost to the enemy in air combat the Allies lost 3 F-80 Shooting Stars; 3 F-51 Mustangs, and one Marine F4U to enemy ground fire during the week.

Destruction by Air

Allied planes last week destroyed 1,140 enemy vehicles, 6 locomotives, 65 railway cars, 1 tunnel, 2 bridges, 8 tanks, and 360 buildings. It is estimated that 5,650 casualties were inflicted on the enemy during the period by Allied aircraft.

The number of enemy MIG-15 jets destroyed by Far East Air Force planes in air combat during the war now totals 139, with 49 others probably destroyed, and 266 damaged. Enemy planes of all types destroyed in the air and on the ground by Allied land planes since the start of the war total 263, with 98 probably destroyed, and 318 damaged, for an aggregate of 679 destroyed or damaged. These totals do not include enemy planes destroyed or damaged by carrier-based Navy and Marine aircraft.

Gen. Vandenberg Visits

General Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Chief of Staff of the United States Air Force, who visited the Korean front this week, said that the ability of Air Force planes to cut enemy communications and supply lines would hasten an armistice. He said the interdiction program would prevent the mounting of a sustained Red offensive.

The general expressed his satisfaction with performance of American planes in the Korean conflict, but indicated that improvements were planned. He said that the American F-86 Sabre Jets were the fastest planes in the cockpit, pointing to the great excess of enemy losses in air combat as compared with those of the Americans. This he attributed to superior performance of planes and pilots. At the same time he said that progress in plane design was continuing and fine new planes are now being built.

The Air Chief of Staff said recent losses of B-29 medium bombers over Korea had been exaggerated, and indicated that he regarded such losses as low compared with those resulting from similar raids over Germany in World War II. However, he intimated that improvements were being made that might lessen the loss ratio.

In Washington, a spokesman for the Air Force said that losses of B-29s in combat in Korea were regarded as light. He indicated that the impression of heavy losses may have arisen from the fact that on one day four out of nine B-29s were shot down by enemy jets. However, he said this loss was exceptional, and very few of these planes had been lost over a period of months. Reports from Korea indicated that B-29s were being increasingly used for night bombing operations, and this led to the conclusion of some observers that high losses in daylight had dictated the use of these planes in night attacks. However, it was pointed out that the radar equipment of these medium bombers made it desirable to use this type of aircraft to make accurate attacks in darkness on enemy installations and front-line troops. The Superforts are still being used in daylight attacks on enemy airfields, but apparently in smaller numbers than heretofore.

Casualty Report

The Department of Defense has announced that cumulative enemy casualties from the beginning of the Korean war on 25 June 1950 through 31 Oct. 1951 total 1,442,844. This is an increase of 12,163 over the last previous estimate, covering the period of the war through 24 Oct. 1951.

Of the total enemy casualties 696,968 were sustained by the North Korean Reds and 745,876 by the Chinese Communists. The estimate of killed and wounded among the North Koreans is 433,455, with 114,827 sick and injured, and 148,684 prisoners of war. Chinese losses include 608,654 battle casualties, 117,488 non-battle casualties, and 19,734 prisoners of war.

A report issued this week by the Defense Department places total American battle casualties in the Korean war at 99,226. This covers notifications of next of kin through 9 Nov. 1951. Of this number 16,805 were killed or died of wounds; 71,642 were wounded, including 1,620 who died of wounds; and 12,582 were missing in action, including 183 reported dead, 1,387 who returned to military control, and 174 reported as prisoners. If recent reports of massacres of Allied prisoners of war by the enemy are accurate at least half of the 10,836 currently missing have been slain.

Of the nearly 100,000 American casualties 81,160 were sustained by the Army, 16,027 by the Marines, 1,129 by the Navy and 910 by the Air Force.

Santa Enters War Zone

Santa Claus has joined the Eighth Army in Korea.

He currently is going from foxhole to foxhole taking orders for presents from soldiers for their families and loved ones at points throughout the world. He is making it possible for combat soldiers to do their Christmas shopping on the battle field.

The Eighth Army's Japan Central Exchange, through a program named "Operation Santa Claus," is aiding the mythical Kris Kringle in the huge gift ordering, procuring and distributing chore. Col. John K. Miller is exchange officer in charge of the giant operation.

Order blanks and catalogues from which gifts may be selected and ordered already have been placed in the hands of the Army troops. The orders will be turned over to a special staff of Christmas shoppers in Japan and filled through the Yokohama Post Exchange.

Gifts offered range from a variety of children's clothing and toys to a glamorous list of souvenir items from China and Japan—such things as linens, cloisonne, brass and jewelry in jade, crystal and pearl.

They will be delivered to soldiers' families and friends by mail in time for the Christmas holiday, each gift carefully wrapped and packed to withstand repeated handling during overseas shipment.

Santa Claus literally has donned a steel helmet to do it but soldiers on a front line outpost or at a rear area supply depot can be sure their Christmas presents get home on time.

Top Ace Wing C.O.

Col. Francis S. Gabreski, the Nation's top flying ace, has assumed command of the 51st Fighter-Interceptor Wing in Korea. He had been deputy commander of the 4th Fighter-Interceptor Wing.

Colonel Gabreski, who shot down 26 planes in World War II and destroyed three on the ground, has added three MIG-15 jets destroyed and one damaged to his total.

He succeeds Col. William P. Litton listed as missing in a jet flight over Japan.
